Ulster Fair...Something for Everyone

By TIM SCHUSTER

NEW PALTZ
An optimistic point in a somewhat depressing year for farmers began unfolding this morning with the opening of the three-day Ulster County Fair.

With a strong agrarian flavor, the fair began at 8 a.m., and soaring temperatures and humidity greeted early arrivals on Libertyville Road, two miles outside the Village of New Paltz.

The fair coincides with the 100th anniversary of the New York State Grange, and the 14 subordinate Granges of Ulster County, with three junior Granges, took the opportunity to unfold their large exhibition hall handwork show with the theme "101

Years of Unity." Fred Eckert, in charge of the Grange exhibits, termed cooperation "wonderful" in his department. There are about 650 state Granges.

It is the fair's fifth year at the New Paltz site, and it has a history extending into the last century, according to Doug Bartow, fair manager.

He said that about 20,000 persons attended the 1972 edition in New Paltz, but that exact attendance records are not kept as there is no entrance fee, only a parking charge of $1.

Visitors were already participating in a giant helium filled balloon ride in the field across the street from the fair entrance. The mammoth orange and yellow sphere towered over the amusement ride section, and promised to give an excellent aerial view of the proceedings.

While the fair means entertainment and some education for most people, it is a serious business for many contestants who have worked diligently to bring their best agricultural and horticultural products in for judging and competition.

A quick tour through the vegetable area showed the work underway before the fog and mist had a chance to clear from the skies early this morning.

With dozens of children gathered around, judges passed over exhibits making remarks such as, "What's wrong with these beans?";

"I can tell these have been in the refrigerator"; "Summer squash can grow up to two inches a day"; "How many of you were at the BOCES training session?"; and "These carrots indicate that they were not grown in nice, loose Orange County mud."

And the 4-H dairy cattle show, which began at 9 a.m., was busily prepared for with much water, sweat, and consternation before the animals paraded under a canvas tent.

Entertainment features this evening will include a dance review by Denise Dance Studios, a gymkhana show, and the 4-H Dress Review.

Also a skydiving exhibition by the Shawangunk Mountain Skydiving Club, a dog exhibition by the Ulster County Kennel Club, and a concluding note by The Anvil, rock group.

Major events Saturday will be the 4-H Horse Show all day, tractor driving competition, dog drill team exhibition at noon, a magic show in the afternoon, and a "hot air balloon race" scheduled for 6 p.m.

And the final fair day will include a horse show, dog obedience judging, dairy showmanship, 2:30 p.m. awards presentation, and a 5 p.m. 4-H Parade of Champions.

As Association of Native Americans will hold exhibits and demonstrations of American Indian crafts, dancing, and lore during the entire course of the fair.

County Sets Legal Action Against City

By LYNN MULVANEY

KINGSTON

In the midst of heated debate over the county's fiscal policies, Legislature Chairman Peter J. Savago instructed County Attorney Abram Molyneux Thursday night "to bring legal action against the City of Kingston" to force the city to pay $528,000 it allegedly owes the county since June 1.

The move came during an angry exchange between Republicans who defended the county treasurer, Fred DuBois' way of handling county funds and the Democrats who called for a study to ascertain how county funds might be allocated with an aim toward obtaining the highest available amount of interest.

It was Legislator Glenn A. Debrosky (R-Dist. 7) who brought to light the fact that the city owes the county money for its share of county taxes. The county has already lost $25,000 to $30,000 in interest it could have realized if the city had met its obligations on time, he said.

Debrosky said that the first payment was due March 1 but was not paid until June 29 in the amount of $581,971.66. The second payment of $528,144.06 was due June 1, he explained, and still remains unpaid although DuBois has contacted the City Treasurer's Office. Debrosky said Savago said he decided to press the suit against the city because of remarks made by James Gilpatric (D-City) who, Savago said, inferred that the county was lax in not pursuing the matter.

"On that basis," Savago said, "I agreed to go after the money."

The Legislature later voted 22 to 9 along party lines, defeating the Democratic resolution calling for the study. Two members were absent.

In debate prior to the vote the Republicans maintained that county funds have been and are being invested wisely with Louis Bevier (R-Dist. 8) revealing that $287,000 in interest has been realized so far this year.

Minority Leader Dr. Gerald P. Gorman (D-City) stressed that in view of the state auditor's criticism of deposits in non-interest bearing accounts, a study would have merit.

George Barthel (D-Dist. 10) noted that the state auditors found that $50,000 to $60,000 more in interest could have been earned by the county during the period of a year.

Charges of politics flew back and forth across both sides of the aisle leading to many angry exchanges.

The Legislature acted positively on the Ulster County Community College budget of $3.5 million, which represented an increase of but 1.92 per cent over last year. The vote was unanimous. The county's share is $1,044,848.

The board also voted 28 to 3 to appoint Kenneth J. Whispell to the newly created post of superintendent of county buildings and construction, at a salary of $14,311 a year.

Legislators James Carroll (D-City), Larry Kithcart (D-City) and Alex J. Nirenberg (D-Dist. 10) voted against the measure. All others voted for. Legislators Ralph Brach (R-Dist. 9) and Lester C. Elmendorf (R-Dist. 2) were not in attendance. Another party line vote of 22-

9 came on a proposal to implement a study of the medical examiner system in Ulster County. Sponsored by Carroll, it won the approval of the Democrats but was defeated by the GOP. Majority Leader Ernest J. Gardner (R-Dist. 11) called the present coroner system which costs $7,500 a year "efficient." He estimated the examiner system at a quarter million. Dr. Gorman on the other hand thought the county should reappraise the question with regard to need. Again he stressed that the resolution merely called for a study.

Unanimous approval was given to entering into a contract for federal funding for the recently acquired county park known as St. George's Park.

The board also approved $8,595 for the Ulster County Senior Citizens Alliance Inc. and agreed to enter into a contract for the appraisal of certain county-owned buildings.

The Rochester Agricultural District was adopted and two public hearing dates were set on proposed agricultural districts in Shawangunk and Gardiner. They will be held Aug. 28 at 8 and 8:30 p.m. in the Town Hall, Shawangunk.

A blanket bond for all county employees was authorized and Jose Camallonga Jr., superintendent of highways, was appointed a representative of the county to obtain financial assistance under the disaster relief act.

Worst Mass Murder in U. S. History Feared

Houston Body Count Reaches 21

HOUSTON (UPI) — Police found two more bodies today buried in three-foot-deep graves in an East Texas pine forest, raising to 21 the number of murder victims — all believed young boys who were tortured, sexually abused and killed by a bachelor electrician and two teen-aged "assistants."

The first two bodies found today were dug up near Broadus, Tex., on the shores of Lake Sam Rayburn 125 miles north of Houston.

Sheriff John Hoyt of San Augustine County said the two bodies found at the lake had been buried for "about six weeks." They were wrapped in clear plastic bags and covered with lime — like most of the other victims discovered over the past three days.

One of the teen-agers accused in the killings told police Thursday they will find about 30 bodies. If so, it would be the worst mass murder in U.S. history.

Police pieced together a story of two boys from broken homes who hung around with the older man and thought of him as a substitute father.

Police unearthed 17 of the bodies under a boat shed in southwest Houston. The other two bodies were found late Thursday north of Houston at an east Texas fishing resort on the shores of Lake Sam Rayburn. Digging operations were ordered continued at this site today.

In addition, police said there may be a third burial ground on an island off Texas' Gulf Coast.

Police think the killings took place during the past two years. One victim was believed to be a 13-year-old boy missing since 1971. His parents spent thousands of dollars in a search for him.

Police learned of the killings/torture rack with another young six times with a .22-caliber pistol.

Dean Allen Corll, 33, was shot and was about to sexually molest and kill all three of his teen-agers. But Henley told police he also implicated the other teen-agers involved, David Brooks, 18, and a 15-year-old girl.

Henley said Corll had previously told him about the burial ground at the boat shed. Henley also implicated the other teen-agers involved, David Brooks, 18, and a 15-year-old girl.

Once free, Henley said he said he took part in some of the killings. He said he turned on Corll, shooting him.

Why Nixon 'Hit the Ceiling'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon "hit the ceiling" when he learned Vice President Spiro T. Agnew was under investigation in an alleged Maryland kickback scheme and tried to talk Agnew out of holding a news conference, White House sources said today.

An "angry" Nixon, the sources said, told Agnew at a meeting they held Tuesday that silence was a better posture than holding a news conference.

Agnew, however, told Nixon he felt he should go ahead with the news conference, the sources said. The vice president held the conference Wednesday, minutes Tuesday evening.

He described the allegations of bribery, extortion, conspiracy "far reaching" but declined to amplify the remark.

Agnew flew Thursday to California for what staff members said were "a couple of days off."

The vice president was expected to stay at Palm

Agnew plans to let him "stand alone" in his defense. He frequently spends his free time at the resort, where singer day or Wednesday evening.

Frank Sinatra and some other close friends have homes. They noted that Nixon hopes to focus on the broad picture, pointing up his past accomplishments, and branding Watergate a preoccupation as unimportant, as he said in his constitutional immunity for toast recently to Japanese Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka.

Some observers felt that Agnew's performance in his news conference had added to his stature, in the eyes of the public and the press.

Nixon today was at his Camp David, Md., retreat with his closest advisors preparing his public response to Watergate charges that have damaged his second administration.

Some of his aides believe that Nixon will take a "tough" stance in a televised address to the nation which may be delivered on prime time Tuesday or Wednesday evening.

Bus Saga...Another Chapter

TOWN OF ULSTER

The continuing "Saga of the Wayward Bus," which had apparently ended in February, began anew this week — and with a new twist for chapter three — when a 12-year-old West Hurley boy who previously specialized in stealing school buses went for a nine-hour joy ride in a stolen truck.

Chapter three opened Wednesday night about 9 p.m. when the boy, who was not identified because of his age, stole a van-type truck from Van's Auto and Air Express Inc. on Ulster Avenue Mall.

But unlike past episodes, this time the boy was not spotted by state police, and no one noticed the truck missing, so the elusive young driver had clear sailing, which he apparently took advantage of. Police said the boy drove through Saugerties and around the Catskill area in Greene County before returning to Ulster County.

However, it was not until about 6:30 a.m. Thursday that anyone even had an inkling that something was amiss.

State Police said a Van's employee, who was not identified, noticed the truck parked off Route 28 near Route 28A as he was going to work. Thinking it strange for the truck to be parked there, the man investigated and saw the boy carrying a pellet gun.

Police were notified, and after a foot chase through a wooded area, the boy was finally caught. The boy did not use the pellet gun, police said.

After being captured, the boy indicated he had stopped driving because he was getting tired, according to police.

At the time of his capture, the boy was a runaway from the Highland Training School. He was sent there following his last escapade in February, and after being given a pass last weekend, the boy did not return.

On Jan. 10, the same youth stole a bus from the parking lot at Ontario Central School in Boiceville and drove to Shokan. There he switched buses, taking a second vehicle from the R. J. W. School Bus Transit Co. parking lot, and proceeded on a 20-mile spin before returning to take a third vehicle.

He drove the third bus along Route 28A, where Trooper Richard Sparrow spotted him and attempted to flag him down. But each time Sparrow pulled alongside the bus, the youth swerved to the left and forced the police car to fall back. The boy finally pulled the bus onto the side of a street in West Hurley, where he was found asleep inside.

On Feb. 13 the boy again led police on a chase along back roads in West Hurley after taking a bus owned by Arthur F. Mulligan Inc. of Rosendale from a parking lot along Sawkill Road.

But the area around the intersection of Route 28 and Route 28A proved to be the downfall of the boy then, too, as it was there police were able to stop him.

Chapter two closed with the boy being petitioned into family court — an ending which was repeated Thursday after chapter three, which officials hope will be the last chapter of the "Saga."

Dutchess President Named Chairman

POUGHKEEPSIE — President John J. Connolly of Dutchess Community College will serve as chairman of the Public Relations Committee of the Mid-Hudson Civic Center Fund.

The committee, according to Jack A. McEnroe, chairman of the Civic Center Advisory Committee, will be responsible for publicizing the Civic Center program throughout the Mid-Hudson Valley.

The program, officially known as the Mid-Hudson Civic Center Fund, was organized recently to seek $3 million for the construction of a civic center in downtown Poughkeepsie.

The center will consist of a large multi-purpose civic hall with an adjoining indoor skating rink. It will serve cultural, business, and civic organizations in Dutchess and Putnam Counties and parts of Ulster and Orange Counties.

Dr. Connolly, who became DCC president last March, was dean of Harford Community College, Bel Air, Md., prior to coming to Dutchess. He has authored numerous articles on education and is a contributor to professional journals. Locally, Dr. Connolly serves as a member of the Advisory Board, Dutchess County Commission on Aging.

Historic Sites Need Volunteers

HYDE PARK

The two National Historic Sites in Hyde Park are in need of volunteers to contribute a few hours per week in a variety of jobs.

Individuals interested in meeting and working with the public are needed to supplement and expand the visitor services activities at both the Roosevelt Home and Vanderbilt Mansion.

Others with an artistic interest could work on the Art in Nature Program begun on Saturday mornings this summer at the home of Franklin D. Roosevelt.

This fall, the first grade environmental education program "Happenings in Nature" will resume and, if there are sufficient volunteers, will be expanded to other schools in the Hyde Park community. Interest in working with children and an appreciation of nature are the two requirements.

Volunteers interested in curatorial or museum activities are also being sought for work at both sites.

The program of music in the mansion utilizing the Vanderbilt grand piano will hopefully be expanded during the fall and winter to operate seven days a week.

Finally, an elegant 1904 dress is seeking a lady, size 12, to wear it an afternoon or two a week to bring history to life at Vanderbilt Mansion.

The Volunteer in Parks program at Vanderbilt Mansion and the Roosevelt Home has been in existence for 15 months. Beginning in summer of 1972 with live music in the Vanderbilt Mansion and information activities at both sites, it grew to include a series of ten educational programs for first graders at Hyde Park Elementary School last spring.

creation of an herbarium; historic costuming and art programs. Any one interested in begin a VIP should call or visit the visitor center at Vanderbilt during the week. Lenard Brown is in charge of the program.

Director Discusses Project

KINGSTON

Speaking on the new "Intensive Intake Project" of the Ulster County Probation Department, director Charles Schultz told the Kingston Kiwanis Club members recently that "probation was making new and forward steps," and asked for their cooperation in the project.

Schultz prefaced his remarks by making it clear to his audience that probation was the result of someone being in difficulty before being sent to an institution, while parole was the process that comes after someone has been confined to an institution.

The new project as outlined by Schultz indicated community involvement for juveniles to 16 years of age on probation "who really want help." He said that this necessitates intensive supervision on the part of the probation officer, a complete knowledge of the person involved, and an understanding of what the juvenile wants in the line of help.

Referring to the latter idea, the director emphasized that these probationers like to get involved in work projects in order to accomplish something.

This is the result of no home guidance, motivation or direction for the juvenile who has become involved in trouble, he said.

Schultz appealed for help in finding some types of employment for these probationers, and noted that it cost approximately $19,000 per year to take care of a juvenile offender in a state-owned institution.

Suspect Caught Trying to Flee

ESOPUS

Jeffrey Soura, 18, of 189 North Broadway, Port Ewen, is back in the Ulster County Jail today after attempting to escape the custody of a pair of deputy sheriffs while awaiting trial on a previous burglary charge in Esopus Justice Court Thursday night.

According to sheriff's deputies, Soura, who was arrested on July 31 for an attempted break-in at the Port Ewen Firehouse, was taken to the Esopus Town Hall Thursday night by Deputies Fred LeFever and Einar Knutsen for an appearance before Justice Robert Jordan.

Soura, handcuffed, was seated on a bench in the town hall outside Justice Jordan's courtroom with Knutsen next to him and LeFever standing at the door. Knutsen reportedly turned to speak to LeFever when Soura jumped up, bolted for the door and knocked LeFever off balance.

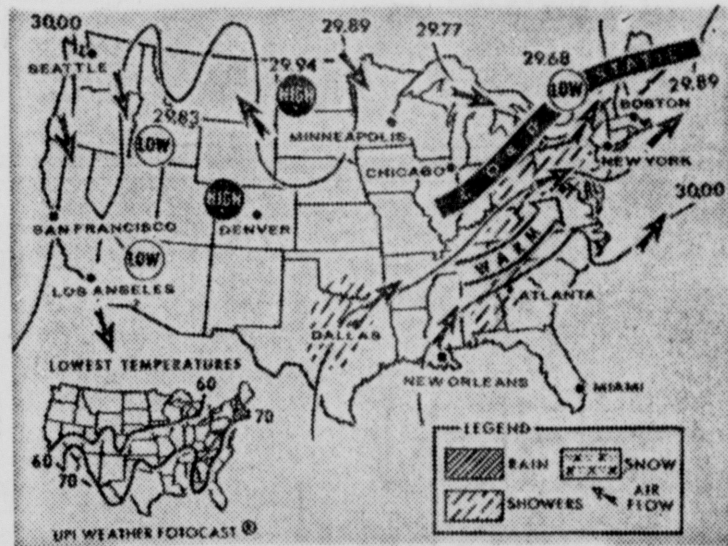

Soura then reportedly ran down the street, with LeFever and Knutsen in pursuit. Le-Fever captured the suspect with a flying tackle about 100 yards from the town hall. LeFever suffered injuries to his right shoulder and right knee in the incident. He was treated and released at Benedictine Hospital.

Jordan remanded Soura to the Ulster County Jail in lieu of $25,000 bail for an Aug. 23 appearance on the original burglary charge. Charges of attempted escape are also pending.

License Revoked

Hazel Dickson, 51, of 44 Wood Street, Kingston, arrested Tuesday on five vehicle and traffic charges following a high speed chase which began in Saugerties and ended in Kingston, was fined $150 and had his license revoked during proceedings before Kingston Town Justice Robert Ferrigan Wednesday night. In other matters before Ferrigan a charge of first degree rape against Charles Howard Smith, 19, of Modena, was dismissed after the complainant refused to testify.

Demands Watergate Tape Recordings

Panel Files Lawsuit Against Nixon

WASHINGTON (UPI) — For the first time in history, the President of the United States has to answer a lawsuit filed by a committee of Congress. The Senate Watergate panel wants the constitutional battle over executive privilege to begin sooner than the usual procedure calls for.

The committee filed suit in U.S. District Court Thursday demanding that President Nixon turn over five tape recordings of Watergate related conversations made in his office and documents concerning the activities of 25 current or former aides.

It asked that Nixon respond within 20 days, the normal time limit for a private citizen, but one-third the time allowed for a government agency. The committee suit named Nixon as both President and as an individual.

The committee action followed by two days a White House response to a similar suit filed by Special Prosecutor Archibald Cox, contending that releasing the tapes and papers would irreparably damage needed presidential secrecy and that neither Congress nor the courts have the power to force the President to release documents.

Committee lawyers followed Cox's lead and argued that whatever claim of privilege

Nixon made for the tapes was invalidated by his having let H. R. Haldeman, his former chief of staff, listen to two of them after he no longer worked for the government.

The committee subpoenaed the tapes and documents July 23 after testimony from former White House aide Alexander P. Butterfield that Nixon's conversations in the Oval Office and the Executive Office Building were taped.

Nixon wrote committee chairman Sen. Sam J. Ervin, D-N.C., that he would not surrender the tapes but would consider "specific requests" for documents.

The suit said Nixon's refusal was "unlawful, unwarranted, and in breach of his legal duty to respond to and to comply with such subpoenas."

Haldeman told the committee he heard two tapes of conversations between Nixon and his former counsel, John W. Dean III.

The committee asked the court for a declaratory judgment stating that Nixon had no right to refuse, a writ of mandamus requiring him to carry out his official duties and release the subpoenaed material and a mandatory injunction forcing him to release the tapes and documents from his personal possession.

A response to the 20-day time limit is expected next week.

In another Watergate development, sources in Cox's office say that several corporate officials have admitted donating company money to Nixon's re-election campaign in violation of federal law.

The sources did not name the executives or the firms, but said they volunteered the information following recent disclosures that the board chairman of American Airlines and Ashland Oil, Inc. donated company funds to the finance committee of the Committee to Re-elect the President.

The sources said the newly disclosed donations amounted to about $100,000.

A federal grand jury begins investigating Nixon campaign fund-raising next week.

Tax Officials Want Presidential Lawyer

SANTA ANA, Calif. (UPI) — Tax officials are considering asking President Nixon to get a lawyer to represent him in the dispute over whether the Western White House is under-taxed—or they may appoint one for him.

The warning came Thursday from two of the three members of the Orange County Assessment Appeals Board.

The board's chairman indicated however it may not have the legal authority to act on its own.

They commented after the state Board of Equalization in Sacramento voted to ask the county board to look into the dispute over Nixon's estate on the Southern California coast at San Clemente.

There have been charges that the county tax assessor assigned too low a value to Nixon's estate, failing to include the hundreds of thousands of dollars in federal money spent on the property.

The counter argument is that the money went into security measures, requested by the Secret Service to protect the President, and did not improve the value of the property for tax purposes. Federal property is not taxed by the county.

"It is my thought that we ought to invite the President to appear, by counsel, to present evidence," county appeals board member Frank Manzo said Thursday.

If the President declines, he said, the County Bar Association should be asked to name a "special counsel" to represent Nixon.

Orange County should pay the fee for such an appointed lawyer, he said.

Manzo said he would introduce a motion at the board's next meeting, in September, to examine the Western White House assessment.

"The President is a resident of our county and is our neighbor. It is in his best interests, and the interest of the taxpayers, that we look into this situation," he said.

Manzo was joined by another appeals board member, Robert Hostetter, who said that "regardless of what happens, we'll look at it fairly—Democrat, Republican or otherwise. I'm open minded on this thing. We're always impartial."

The appeals board chairman, Otto Christensen, said he does not think the board has the legal authority to begin its own inquiry. The matter must be brought before the board by the county grand jury or by the owner of similar property, complaining of discrimination.

The state board maintained however that the county board does have the power to act on its own.

Cost of Food Higher for Second Quarter

By United Press International

The Agriculture Department today said the cost of food in the United States during the second quarter of this year was 15 per cent higher than it was in 1972.

The department also said the production of wheat, corn and soybean crops will set new records this year, but experts said prices probably will not come down because the big crops are less than had been expected.

In other developments:

—Sens. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., and House Minority Leader Gerald Ford, R-Mich., called for lifting the price freeze on beef before Sept. 12.

—President Nixon accepted a compromise with Congress on a new farm bill that administration officials say will be the kick-off for a full-scale drive to increase food supplies. Higher production could mean lower prices.

—Wheat futures climbed to new highs on the Midwest commodity exchanges for the ninth day in a row.

—Mexican grocers along the border with California were preparing for another weekend rush of U.S. shoppers eager to buy beef at prices ranging from 60 cents a pound for ground chuck to $1.15 a pound for steak.

—All 55 kosher butchers in Pittsburgh said they would close for a week starting Monday because of the high cost of beef and poultry.

—The Ideal Bakery Company of Jacksonville, Ill., said it will close this weekend because the cost of ingredients has gone up as much as 50 per cent and there is no lard to be had because meat packers are also closing.

Humphrey, speaking in Chicago, said the government's refusal to relax the ban on price raises before that date is "a political decision, and I think it's a very stupid one."

Also in Chicago, but at a separate news conference, Ford said, "I believe the current beef situation is so chaotic that it is essential the ceiling be lifted before Sept. 12."

The retail cost of a family food market basket from April to June of this year rose to an annual rate of $1.497, up 6 per cent from the first quarter and 15 per cent from a year earlier, the Agriculture Department's economists said in a report.

The government economists also said consumers can expect more price boosts this fall because of higher raw farm product prices and increased middlemen's charges.

Adding all those factors together, 1973 retail food prices are expected to average 18 to 22 per cent above 1972, the department said.

Country's Role as Food Provider Changing

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rising U.S. food prices and short supplies have begun to cut into this country's role as a provider of food to the underdeveloped world.

Officials said Thursday that U.S. government purchases from American farmers of food for needy people abroad under the Food for Peace program have been halted temporarily while officials review available domestic supplies and prices.

Ironically, the disclosure came on a day when the Agriculture Department predicted the biggest U.S. food crop in history this year.

It said this year's crop—on the basis of Aug. 1 conditions—would up 5 per cent from last year's record and 18 per cent above 1967. It said this would include record crops of wheat, corn, grain sorghums and soybeans.

But the Agriculture Department said that, with the exception of sorghums, each of these individual crops is below the levels predicted a month ago. This, in relation to the demand for the crops at home and overseas, is causing the high prices.

Against this background, officials said food for delivery under the overseas aid program from July through September has already been purchased from U.S. farmers and is being shipped. This includes grain for victims of the African drought.

But they said contracting for deliveries beginning in October, which normally would have begun last month, has been put off pending review of the government's crop report and the U.S. food situation.

The National Farmers Union (NFU) called the suspension "a tragic result of mismanagement and policy blundering."

The U.S. Agency for International Development (AID) said that if a decision is made quickly to resume contracting the holdup in food shipments may be brief.

But Tony Dechant, NFU president, said "present indications" are that, even after the resumption of contracting, supplies for most organizational feeding programs abroad will be cut 80 per cent, and that some volunteer groups may be forced to shut down feeding programs they operate in hospitals, orphanages and schools.

Brooklyn Civil Judge Is Indicted

NEW YORK (UPI)—Brooklyn Civil Court Judge Ross J. DiLorenzo has been indicted on charges that he lied to fellow judges in denying that he had tried to have investigators probing underworld influence on the waterfront to "take it easy."

The indictment of DiLorenzo Thursday was the first handed against a judge by a grand jury empaneled by Maurice DiLorenzo pleaded innocent before Justice John M. Murtagh in State Supreme Court and was released in his own recognizance. His lawyer, James LaRossa, said, "These charges stem from the same old investigation conducted by the Appellate Division which unanimously cleared" DiLorenzo.

Murtagh fixed Sept. 7 as the pre-trial conference date.

If convicted, DiLorenzo faces a maximum of seven years on each of the eight perjury counts and one year on the count of obstructing governmental administration.

Earlier, Nadjari told news-men, "This office is reviewing every single complaint against every single member of the judiciary in the last five years."

Nadjari said, "Our investigation brought to the surface facts and new evidence not available to the Appellate Division's probe." He declined, however, to discuss the nature of the evidence.

During a hastily called but crowded news conference at the World Trade Center, Nadjari avoided criticism of the appellate panel's decision to only censure DiLorenzo instead of removing him.

A spokesman for Nadjari said it would be up to the Appellate Division to decide whether to remove DiLorenzo from the bench because of the indictment.

Firemen Recover Body

NEW YORK (UPI) — Firefighters early today recovered the body of a man described as about 35 years old in the rubble of the University Hotel which collapsed last Friday.

It was the third body recovered by firefighters probing the debris of the hotel, formerly known as the Broadway Central, in Lower Manhattan.

The victim was not identified immediately.

Before the victim was found, a fire department spokesman said, four persons had been listed as missing in the collapse.

DiLorenzo was charged with committing perjury eight times and with obstructing governmental administration.

Nadjari said DiLorenzo had asked a waterfront commission investigator "to go easy" on Thomas Masotto, described by authorities as associate of reputed underworld czar Carlo Gambino. DiLorenzo then denied he had attempted to influence the investigation in testimony in 1972 before a five-judge appellate division panel reviewing the case, Nadjari said.

The Appellate Division censured DiLorenzo and suspended him, but restored him to the bench seven months after the review was completed.

DiLorenzo pleaded innocent before Justice John M. Murtagh in State Supreme Court and was released in his own recognizance. His lawyer, James LaRossa, said, "These charges stem from the same old investigation conducted by the Appellate Division which unanimously cleared" DiLorenzo.

New Manager Learning Problems

ELLENVILLE crisis sort of government would make "a lot of jobs easier, including my own."

Modris "Moe" Pukulis, Ellenville's new 26-year-old village manager, said Thursday he has been spending his first week on the job learning the village's "problems and issues, and he expects to be spending some more time toward that goal."

He also intends to depend on his department heads to a large extent. "I want them to run their own departments," he said. One of the strengths the village has which he has found in his first week on the job is the quality of village employees, which he termed "very good."

Pukulis, the former assistant to the Hodlen, Mass., town supervisor, and holder of a master's degree from Northeastern University, assumed his post Monday. He is the sixth manager in the 14-year history of the village manager form of government in Ellenville. He succeeded Lawrence E. Eyres, who was forced out of the post nearly two years ago.

Though he said he had no answers for Ellenville's problem as yet, he does intend to emphasize more planning in the village's operation.

"I see evidence of a lack of planning," said Pukulis of the Ellenville operation. This has led to the sudden need to spend large amounts of money, and he felt the elimination of this thought there was "too much job for him to do."

As might be expected, Pukulis believes in the manager form of government, feeling that a professional is needed for the daily running of a governmental operation. He said the village board of trustees was in the best position to set policy, living in the community and being its elected representatives, but a trained professional was the man best able to carry out the policies it set.

People, in the long absence of a village manager in Ellenville, have gotten out of the habit of calling the manager's office with their problems. Pukulis urged Ellenville residents to call his office with their problems, particularly problems they intended to bring up at a village board meeting. He said if he knew about the problems beforehand, he could have solutions ready at the meeting, or at least have the full information ready for the trustees so they could make a decision.

STAMFORD The Temporary State Commission to Study the Catskills — which can play a major role in the future economic, environmental and recreational development of Ulster and six other counties — is expected to meet in Kingston August 21 to solicit ideas and suggestions from local community leaders.

The commission has already held meetings in Greene and Otsego Counties. At a press conference Thursday afternoon in Stamford — attended by the full commission — chairman Kirby Peake pledged that the group will "continually meet with the public" to hear their views on how an orderly development of the Catskill region can be attained. But the tentative August 21 meeting will apparently be restricted only to governmental leaders and spokesmen for community groups. After these first phase sessions in each of the seven Catskill region counties, the commission will hold numerous "public hearings" on the plans and recommendations they have for the region.

Thursday's press conference provided few specific indications of the commission's ultimate direction. Chairman Peake summed up the commission's apparent reluctance to commit itself on specific projects by stating, "It would be very premature for us to give clear concepts at this time."

But one point was made abundantly clear at Thursday's conference: the commission intends to press for the orderly growth of the Catskill region; a growth that may be best governed by viable zoning laws in every community in the seven county area.

Specific projects, nevertheless, were discussed. Commissioner Mitchell Brock said he does not foresee the Catskill region becoming a "utility reservoir" for New York City, with steam and nuclear generating plants lining the Hudson, and new reservoirs and dams created in the mountains.

enacted in the towns of Esopus and Saugerties. He said that nighttime vandalism was on the increase, especially in the area of Chambers Elementary School and M. Clifford Miller Junior High School, and that a curfew would give police a means of controlling vandals.

Sabino directed Town Clerk Robert Morehouse to obtain copies of ordinances enacted in other places and asked board members to study them and be prepared to act at the September meeting.

Kenneth Dargis said that residents of the Whittier development had told him that town highway equipment had been used to do work on private property and asked the board to investigate a possible misuse of taxpayer money.

Sabino said that he could not be responsible for the actions of his predecessors, but that no work had been done on private property during the past four years. He said he had checked the area in question with Edgar Elliott, the highway superintendent, and that although there were catch basins located next to a brook behind the development, highway crews cleaned out the basins periodically but never had done any work on the brook channel itself, which is on private property.

Another member of the audience asked about the status of Post Road in East Kingston, allegedly closed two years ago by the Hudson Cement Company. Sabino said the matter was within the jurisdiction of the highway superintendent, and that he would ask Elliott to look into it.

"The source of water is not only limited in the Catskills," said Brock, "sooner or later, the Delaware Counties, could seriously damage the other 'attractive attributes' of those areas."

Despite the commission's energetic intentions, it may not be able to influence the proposed expansion of Stewart Airport in Newburgh. "We're late and we're in a weak position," said Peake. "We really don't have any authority." He said that, by the time the commission issues its final report (the deadline is March, 1975), many projects that could be deemed undesirable (such as Stewart, the construction of condominiums and power generating plants) may already be underway or given final approval.

But Commissioner Israel Slutsky emphasized that the building boom in Ulster and Sullivan Counties that may follow the expansion of Stewart Airport could be controlled by strict planning and zoning.

The commission has already made one recommendation: that the state purchase and renovate the Catskill Mountain Branch of the Penn Central Railroad between Kingston and Stamford.

There is one Ulster County resident on the commission, Harold Finkle, who lives in the Town of Ulster and is employed at First Albany Corp. An active conservationist, Finkle said Thursday, "Land use — or misuse — is one of our biggest problems. . . we have to get better use of our land and a constructive use for the future of the land that's left."

The commission has been charged by the state legislature to study the conservation, environment, culture, economy, transportation, recreation and future growth of the seven-county region. "Don't expect utopian recommendations in two years," said Peake. "But we feel we can make a difference in the future of this territory."

Town of Ulster Sewer Bids . . . Sept. 6 Opening Slated

By CARL GRAHAM

TOWN OF ULSTER

New bids on portions of a Town of Ulster sewer project abandoned by the original contractor will be opened in the town hall at 10:30 a.m. on Thursday, September 6.

The bids will be on incomplete portions of two sewer installation contracts for slightly more than $2 million which were abandoned June 8 by SiteCon Industries of Greenwich, Conn., with roughly one-fourth of the work completed. The lines are collectors for the town's sewage disposal plant, expected to be completed some time this fall.

Supervisor Carmine Sabino said at Thursday night's town board meeting that the town still has about $1.5 million of the original amount left, and that the town will sue SiteCon for any amount the new bids may be in excess of that amount.

Sabino also noted that he had put the $1.5 million into certificates of deposit at rates as high as 9.25 per cent and that the idle funds will earn about $75,000 in interest before being paid out to the new bidder.

The board approved a five-year bond issue for $9,864 to cover the cost of a four-wheel dump truck for the town highway department, and awarded a bid of $3,964 to Kingston Chrysler-Plymouth for a new 1974 car for the town police department. Only one other bid was received, Johnson Ford of Route 28 bidding $4,147.

Sabino told board members that he wanted them to consider a curfew law for the town similar to those recently enacted in the towns of Esopus and Saugerties. He said that nighttime vandalism was on the increase, especially in the area of Chambers Elementary School and M. Clifford Miller Junior High School, and that a curfew would give police a means of controlling vandals.

Sabino directed Town Clerk Robert Morehouse to obtain copies of ordinances enacted in other places and asked board members to study them and be prepared to act at the September meeting.

Kenneth Dargis said that residents of the Whittier development had told him that town highway equipment had been used to do work on private property and asked the board to investigate a possible misuse of taxpayer money.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, AUGUST 10, 1973

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — The Black September gang which murdered two American diplomats in the Sudan and shot up the Athens airport a few days ago is expected by federal authorities to strike soon in the United States.

Confidential Federal Aviation Administration security documents quoted by Rep. John Murphy, D-N.Y., say federal agents are on a "continual alert" to head off the attack.

The documents suggest the terrorists may kidnap prominent Americans and hold them for ransom or for release of jailed Arabs. In the past, terrorists have sought freedom for Sirhan Sirhan, slayer of the late Sen. Robert Kennedy, D-N.Y.

We have learned from government sources that since the murder of Israeli diplomat Col. Yosef Alon in front of his suburban home here last month, federal agents have kept more than 90 potential Arab terrorists under close scrutiny in the United States.

FBI WATCHES STUDENTS
Many are young Arab students being unobtrusively watched by the FBI. With a lethal tit-for-tat developing between Arab and Jewish terrorists, the G-men also have put a handful of Jewish extremists under close watch.

The threat of kidnapping is so real that Sen. Jacob Javits, the gutsy New York Republican who has fought tirelessly to free Soviet Jews, has quietly asked his staff to see whether he can get federal protection for some of his appearances. Javits first made a query about two years ago and renewed it after the slaying of Colonel Alon.

The FAA, although it sometimes provides sky marshals for individual protection, has so far been spared terrorist strikes against stateside airlines. Partly, this is due to new FAA procedures which have helped keep the United States hijack-free since an apparently deranged hijacker made an unsuccessful attempt in Baltimore January 2nd.

The new procedures resulted in an amazing upsurge in arrests in June, according to confidential FAA reports. A memo from FAA Air Transport Security head A. L. Butler says arrests rose 44 per cent in June over May.

"There were 145 guns, 91 explosive (black powder, boxes of ammunition, blasting caps, booby trap simulator, grenade fuse, flare pen), 2,037 knives, and 3,197 other dangerous articles detected during the preboarding passenger screening," Butler reported.

So far in 1973, the cities with most arrests for concealed weapons were Tampa, 25; Jackson, Miss., 20; San Francisco, 19; Los Angeles, 17; New York, 10; Atlanta, Chicago, New Orleans, all eight; Cleveland, Dallas, San Antonio and San Diego, all seven.

While the statistics on arrests are heartening — a total of 291 in June alone — Murphy and several other legislators continue to press for federal airport inspectors to replace private checkers.

In alerting House Commerce Chairman Harley Staggers, D-W. Va., to the confidential papers on the Black September plotters, Murphy said in a private letter that "I feel that we are taking a dangerous gamble with the lives of scores of domestic airline passengers."

SCORCHED EARTH AND DEATH: When the bombing ends in a few days, the target country of Cambodia will bear an American legacy of scorched earth and death. In Thailand, from which the bombers flew their missions, the U.S. Air Force has left a more insidious inheritance.

At Nakhon Phanom, where 5,500 airmen ran Operation Blue Chip's multimegaton air war against Cambodian insurgents, the Air Force folders given young American servicemen told of swimming pools, driving ranges, archery, bowling and lighted tennis courts.

But these briefing leaflets said nothing of the little Thai village's other "pastimes" — drugs and prostitution, both fostered by the sudden and gigantic U.S. presence.

One former officer stationed at Nakhon Phanom told us 40 per cent of the airmen used drugs and the ratio might be higher in the 18 to 25 age group. Radar technicians were "stoned" while they were on duty before their sensitive screens, and gunship helicopter crewmen went to battle high on drugs.

DRUGGED RESCUER
A helicopter parascue man was wobbling on heroin as he went searching for downed American pilots, the ex-officer told us. The drugged rescuer was discovered and sent home.

Air Force spokesmen and our own observers on the scene have convinced us heroin use has dropped dramatically among airmen at Nakhon Phanom. But it remains endemic among the native population whose drug addicts once numbered only a few old opium smokers.

"Smack," as heroin is called, and other hard drugs are used by "most of the young girls (prostitutes)," according to a taped interview with an 18-year-old Thai prostitute near the U.S. base. She "shot up" with heroin during the interview.

When the Air Force influx began a few years ago, young girls came to town from the country to work in such emporia of sex as the Honey Massage Parlor. A photograph in our possession of the Honey establishment shows a sign saying, "Purchase raffle ticket. . . . One prize, your choice of plying (woman) and room all night free. Two prize, free plying and room all night. (You) must furnish room. Three prize, free two-hour massage. Drawing 20th every month."

NUMBERED GIRLS
In another "house of joy" in Nakhon Phanom, women are dressed in white jackets with numbers. There, eager GI clients view them through a one-way mirror. After selecting a girl by number, they adjourn to an upstairs room.

With the end of the bombing, the huge airbase and others like it in Thailand will gradually be phased down. But as our on-the-scene observer and the ex-Air Force officer agreed: "We ruined part of a culture. Nakhon Phanom is a product of our society."

White House 'Pals'

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — Senate investigators have obtained "eyes-only" White House memoranda documenting two attempted interventions — both apparently aborted — by presidential lieutenant Charles W. Colson and his deputy in behalf of two Nixon supporters, one under federal indictment and the other threatened with possible federal prosecution.

A memo from Colson, who left the White House staff March 10, urged that a federal indictment against Nixonite Pittsburgh labor leader F. G. Gualtieri be "worked out" and "disposed of."

Another from Colson's deputy Richard Howard, still on the White House staff, proposed that the Justice Department clear Maryland Nixon contributor Harry W. Rodgers III in regard to possible violations of federal election laws.

Charges against Gualtieri were later dismissed. No charges were ever brought against Rodgers. Still, there is absolutely no evidence this was caused by White House interference. To the contrary, the two requests from Colson's office probably were never relayed beyond the White House counsel's office.

Nevertheless, the memoranda buttress contentions by present White House staffers that attempted interventions in the judicial process represented a recurrent pattern by Colson, President Nixon's top political troubleshooter. Mr. Nixon's senior advisers now call such solicitude for White House "friends" — as well as punitive action against "enemies" — inexcusable and unacceptable. When Colson appears before the Ervin committee next month, he will be questioned closely about meddling in the judicial process.

Gualtieri, business agent for Boilermakers Union Local 154 in Pittsburgh, was one of many hard-hat labor leaders backing Mr. Nixon's reelection in the New Majority Colson was building. On Feb. 19, 1972, Gualtieri was indicted in Pittsburgh on three counts of embezzlement (allegedly using unauthorized funds on trips to union conventions.)

By midsummer, Colson was outraged at the Nixon administration harassing a Nixon labor man. He fired off a July 25 memo to Don Rodgers, a former union official serving as White House coordinator with labor, to contact deputy White House counsel Fred Fielding.

"Get together with Fred Fielding immediately — John Dean's deputy. This is one that has to be worked out. Fred should take it up directly with (then Atty. Gen. Richard) Kleindienst, or John Dean should. I can't do anything with this, but it's one that is absolutely essential that it be disposed of in a correct form."

Colson concluded: "Please get this done today." Fielding told us Rodgers asked him what could be done for Gualtieri. "Nothing," was his reply, according to Fielding. Indeed, prosecutors in Pittsburgh informed us there was no interference from Washington. Charges were dismissed Sept. 20 by U.S. district judge Hubert Tietelbaum on grounds that Gualtieri's expenditures were authorized.

Colson told us he has no recollection of the memo, adding it was not written in "my style." Nor, he said, does he recall Howard's memo to then White House counsel Dean after late 1972 articles in the Baltimore Sun regarding Baltimore land developer Rodgers, Maryland state chairman of "Democrats for Nixon." The stories suggested that Rodgers, by contributing to the Nixon campaign while receiving income from federal leases, was violating federal law.

In the memo to Dean labeled "confidential, eyes only," Howard warned "The Democratic establishment is trying to get Harry Rodgers. . . and they're trying to use every way possible to discredit him." Howard's solution: "What is needed here is a judgment by Assistant Atty. Gen. (Henry) Petersen that there is no violation here."

Howard did not hide the political underpinning. "You would probably have to sue every one of the Presidents' major contributors because I would be willing to bet almost all of them do business with the government in some form," he said. Howard also cautioned against state Atty. Gen. Francis B. Burch entering the case "because he is in cahoots with the other Democrats in the state and out to get Harry Rodgers."

Rodgers was never charged, but apparently not because of Howard's memo. Dean could not be reached, but close associates say he buried Howard's memo. Howard would not talk to us.

So, neither memorandum apparently tampered with the judicial system. Nor, according to White House aides, did similar proposals cascading from Colson's office.

But Colson's conviction that Nixon "friends" deserved preferential judicial treatment, just as "enemies" deserved punishment, described a White House psychology that led to the Watergate disasters.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

Johnny - Come - Lately To End

The last of the old-time star reporters was Red Dolan. He was a tall, tough-talking man with orange curly hair and the smile of a shark drifting into a bathing beach. Red worked for The New York Daily News. At a time when good rewrite men were getting $60 a week, Dolan was earning $200 plus whatever he could chip off an indecipherable expense account.

His by-line was over the big story all week. The big story was almost always scandalous. If a love-sick society girl committed suicide with a photo of Rudolph Valentino clutched to her bosom, Dolan clutched the police aside and started a search for her secret diary. If a pillar of the church was caught in a vice raid, Red put horns on the old goat.

He was a bachelor; he was always broke; he was color-blind. He didn't romance beautiful girls; he wore them on his arm. He never drank casually. Dolan drank to get drunk. As his favorite copyboy, my function was to have his container of sauerkraut juice ready at 10:50 a.m.

The city editor became irritated with my hero. Red was due in the office at 10 a.m. Mr. Harvey Deuell could forgive phony illness, failure on assignment — anything except lateness. When Deuell felt good, he would chuckle inside his chest and make his shoulder jump. They weren't jumping.

Twice he called Dolan to the desk for a lecture. The city editor reminded Red that he was being paid a fantastic wage to be in the office on time. Often, at Mayor Jimmy Walker's news conference, Red was known to arrive late. "The mayor's late, too," said Red. "Not as late as you are," Deuell said. The city editor said that Red was chronically tardy.

I was saddened the morning Deuell called Dolan to his desk and said: "You've been late once too often, Red. Beginning tomorrow morning, and until further notice, your assignment is ship news. That's all."

There was a lot of quiet in the big room. Ship news was the bottom assignment. It involved getting to the U.S. barge office at 5 a.m., stepping aboard a Coast Guard cutter, and taking a cold choppy ride down New York Bay to board incoming ocean liners. Once aboard, a reporter would interview famous arrivals.

"Harvey," Red said, pleading, "I know you're sore — but ship news? I'll have to stay up all night to make the 5 a.m. boat." Deuell spiked one of my gems and nodded. "If you're one minute late, the cutter will be gone. Now beat it, Red. I'm busy."

Everybody heard it — John O'Donnell and Marty Sommers and Doris Fleeson and Nick Kenny, Irene Kuhn and Mark Hellinger. Everybody. They began to look busy. Too busy, Red said he'd quit. He said it softly, to a wall.

At 4:50 a.m., he was shivering at the barge office. The Coast Guard had nothing better than muddy coffee. The ship news regulars from A.P. and U.P. and I.N.S. looked up at Red Dolan in wonderment. They scanned the arrival sheet. There must be something special aboard the Ile de France.

The only "names" were Gloria Swanson, a movie star, and Joseph P. Kennedy, a Boston banker. Must be a big story somewhere. The cutter cast off in darkness. For the first time, Red Dolan wasn't late. For the first time, there was no story worthy of his excitement.

The Ile de France looked like a skyscraper with four red-and-black funnels. Dolan followed the younger reporters to the purser's office. In this place, he was unknown. The liner weighed anchor and moved toward the Hudson River.

Drinks were free to the press. Dolan had a few. Interviews were free. He had two. He asked Miss Swanson silly movie questions. Mr. Kennedy came in. Red brought out his array of Boston banker questions. He was surprised, he said, to learn that these two knew each other.

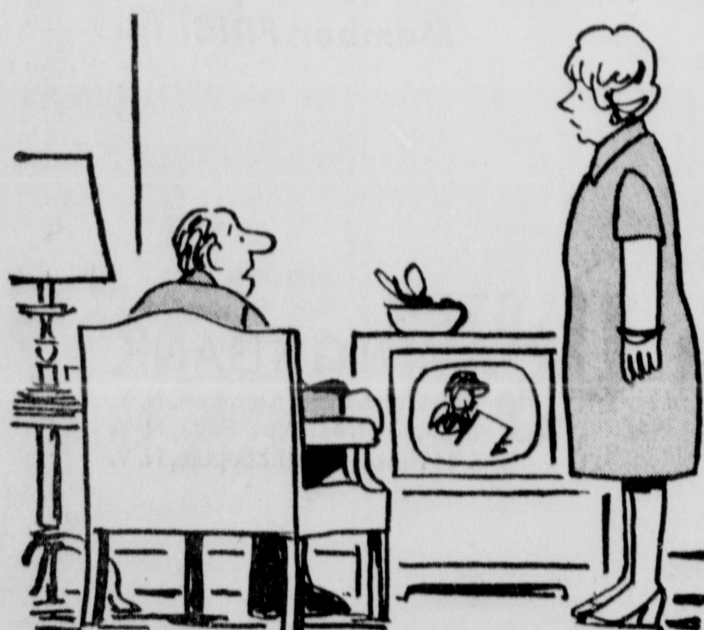

Almost at once, Mr. Kennedy offered Dolan a job writing movies in Hollywood. "For how much?" Red growled. Kennedy glittered behind his spectacles. "We'll start at $300 a week. You look like my kind of Irishman."

That evening, Red got even with Deuell. He quit. He went to Hollywood. Red was late at the studio. They forgave him. But they could not forgive his tabloid newspaper style stories.

Dolan read newspapers with envy. He drank more. He lived in a sanitarium. He busted out. In Washington, he sat with reporters laughing at old stories and he fell over dead.

Red's sister had him cremated. She invited some reporters to "have a drink on Red" in her apartment. There was an urn on the mantle. This was Red's last repose. Some of the reporters felt ill at ease. His sister smiled. "Don't worry," she said. "Red's not in the urn yet. He's late again. Isn't that typical?" . . .

ABA Calls for Investigation Of All Watergate Lawyers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The American Bar Association (ABA) has called on state bar groups to investigate, and possibly discipline, lawyers involved in the Watergate affair.

Ending its 96th annual convention Wednesday, the association's Assembly and its House of Delegates each adopted a resolution calling for "prompt and vigorous disciplinary investigations and appropriate action" by state bars against attorneys who may have violated ethical standards in connection with Watergate.

ABA members who have figured prominently in the investigation of the Senate Watergate committee include John W. Dean III, Herbert W. Kalmbach, Richard Kleindienst, Charles W. Colson, Egil Krogh Jr., Robert C. Mardian and John N. Mitchell.

Only state bars are authorized to discipline lawyers, after giving them hearings. But the association is creating a special advisory commission to assist state bars in their disciplinary work.

The 318-member ABA House approved the resolution by voice vote with only Robert Berensson of Seattle, Wash., objecting. He urged ABA not to "join the vat political overkill taking place right now," contending that state disciplinary committees were capable of handling the situation.

In the Assembly, Joe W. Henry of Pulaski, Tenn., who introduced the original resolution, said, "the legal profession is among the walking wounded of the learned professions." The original resolution was watered down somewhat to avoid statements which expressed "shock" and prejudged the lawyers involved.

In other actions the ABA: —Adopted a resolution, sponsored by former Massachusetts Gov. Endicott Peabody, suggesting creation of a committee to study the present method by which Americans elect the vice president. Peabody said the problem is how to establish the vice presidency "so that the man is there because the people put him there and not because the President handed him to be ineffective to him while in office."

—Voted (120-68 in the House and 183-120 in the Assembly) to urge repeal of laws which make it an offense for adults to engage in any form of non-commercial sexual conduct in private except for provisions "which protect minors or public decorum."

—The policy-making House voted 122 to 70 to recommend that simple possession of a small amount of marijuana not be the basis for criminal action, and voted 103-84 to urge that "casual distribution of small amounts of marijuana, not for profit, be treated as simple possession."

—Rejected by voice vote a move to revoke previous ABA endorsement of a uniform probate code of the National Conference of Commissioners on Uniform State Laws, which permits wills to be probated without notice and estates to be administered without court supervision. James W. Hewitt of Lincoln, Neb., said the code had "stirred up a hornet's nest" in Nebraska, and it was opposed by speakers from California and Illinois.

Henry Is Interested, but

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite constant reports that Henry A. Kissinger will get his job, Secretary of State William P. Rogers shows no signs of leaving.

Kissinger has shown increasing interest in heading the State Department, after years as President Nixon's foreign policy advisor.

Although denying that Nixon has talked to him about a switch, administration officials close to Kissinger have done nothing to squelch the speculation.

Just the opposite, in fact. For instance, one source said that as recently as four months ago Kissinger "would have said no" to becoming secretary of state.

Now, the official said, "I can't say." He said there have been several developments since to change Kissinger's mind, one of them Watergate.

On the other hand, Rogers repeatedly denies the two most prevalent rumors about his future: that he will go to the Supreme Court or that he will be named ambassador to the Soviet Union.

Rogers has told the President he prefers action and could not sit still long enough to handle the research necessary on the court, nor what he considers the routine and narrow functions of the Moscow post.

As if to underline his determination not to be shunted out of the State Department, Rogers' press aide told newsmen this week that the secretary has said "emphatically and repeatedly that there are two things he simply would not consider . . .

"One is a seat on the Supreme Court, and the second is an ambassadorial post."

The aide, Charles W. Bray, is said by department officials to have made the statement on his own, but after having been told by Rogers generally to deny such reports when the question arises.

Sources said Watergate had brought a change in Kissinger's thinking because of his concern for the success of current U.S. foreign policy.

They suggested that Kissinger as Secretary of State would be in a more direct position to carry on the diplomacy necessary to shore up the confidence that other nations have in the United States.

Stockpile Sales Are Failing

By BILL NEIKIRK
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration has met only limited success in trying to depress prices of key materials by selling its strategic stockpiles.

In fact, some commodity prices have risen despite the government sales, frustrating the aim of the program announced in early spring by President Nixon.

Even though the General Services Administration has been selling tin and rubber heavily, the prices of both have gone up markedly. Other prices have not dropped as much as the administration would like.

The failure of material prices to respond is seen by some economists as more evidence that the economy is caught up in an inflationary spiral fueled by heavy foreign and domestic demand for commodities.

The government also is finding out that inflation has sharply boosted the market value of its stored commodities.

When the sales program began, the administration estimated that it had $1.9 billion in hoarded raw materials that could be sold without approval by Congress. Since then, more than $600 million has been sold, yet the value of materials left is estimated at $1.67 billion.

"A great deal of this is due to the change in the market value," said one GSA official, who noted that tin and rubber prices have almost doubled in value.

GSA has sold all the tin it can without congressional approval. It has been selling aluminum, zinc, lead, and cadmium at a fast clip.

But the administration claims it needs legislation soon that will permit the sale of all but the prices of copper, zinc and other metals, including platinum.

But the legislation still is tied up in the House and Senate armed services committees. The House committee hopes to begin hearings after the current congressional recess. The GSA officials said the administration would like to have authority to affect prevented earlier action.

'Flight Tests' for Falcons

WASHINGTON (AP) — The falcon, mascot of the Air Force Academy, is being flight-tested as a predator capable of clearing airport runways of birds that smash into planes.

The principal researcher receiving the ancient art of falconry for the Air Force is The Rev. Edwin Mattingly, a 55-year-old Roman Catholic priest who has been training the birds since his college days in Indiana.

In "Operation Prairie Chickens," Mattingly has been using falcons for two years to clear the rare birds from traditional breeding grounds amid the grass next to a runway at Whiteman Air Force Base, Mo. Air Force researchers say they are consulting bird-lovers and environmentalists at every step of the experiment.

Mattingly said his falcons' claws were dulled and none of the prairie chickens, an endangered species, was killed at Whiteman. But he conceded many probably died because they were flushed from their breeding grounds.

James Rod, an official of the National Audubon Society, said his organization has no objection to use of falcons for clearing out birds that are in plentiful supply. But he promised an investigation of Mattingly's experiment with prairie chickens, or sending in a hunting dog.

The idea was to persuade the approximately 100 prairie chickens that the falcon had established a "territorial prerogative" over the breeding ground the smaller birds had been occupying long before the runway was built. Once the chickens had retreated beyond the runway, Mattingly summoned the falcon back to his arm with a device designed to simulate the whistles of circling prey.

COOL IDEAS FROM CODY.

Summer's here. In all its hot and humid glory. Sure, it's great while you're swimming. But when you get home again, you're ready to cool off. So here are two cool ideas from Cody to make summer indoors as great as summer outdoors!

The deluxe KELVINATOR AIR CONDITIONER is easily installed, has a drop-down front to cover the controls and permanent filter. It's quiet and efficient and has four-way adjustable louvers to direct and circulate air. This model is a 5000 BTU unit.

$179.95

PATTON HIGH VELOCITY AIR CIRCULATOR is today's answer to the electric fan. It cools by circulating fresh air throughout your entire home. If you already have an air conditioner, the circulator will increase its effectiveness by forcing the cooled air into other rooms of your home.

Small — $33.95
Medium — $45.50
Large — $55.95

City Parks Slate Bus Trips

KINGSTON
The individual park bus trips of the Kingston City Recreation Department's summer playground will continue through the final two weeks of the program with trips to Tillson Lake.

Baird State Park and Cooperstown. Hasbrouck Park youngsters will take a bus trip to Tillson Lake on August 9, while the Academy Green and Auditorium Playground kids will have the same outing on August 13. A final visit to Tillson Lake will be made by Block Park boys and girls on August 16. Excursions to Baird State Park will be made respectively by youngsters from Cornell, Forsyth and Loughran Parks on August 10, 14 and 15. All bus trips leave the playgrounds at 9 a.m. In addition, the Recreation Department's own vehicle will transport 15 Forsyth Park boys and girls to Cooperstown on August 9. The youngsters will take a ride on the steam locomotive passenger train of the Cooperstown and Charlotte Valley Stream Railroad and then tour the Baseball Hall of Fame afterwards. Earlier this summer, Hutton

Park children went to Taconic State Park and the kids from the Brigham School playground spent a day at Tillson Lake. The bus trips are for the youngsters, who regularly attend the various playgrounds in the city and arrangements for trips are made by contacting playground directors. The playground program is under the direction of recreation officials Andrew J. Murphy, III, superintendent and Ron Gabriele, activities director.

Lefkowitz

Charges Camp

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The state attorney general has gone to court to shut down the Camp Gan Israel children's camp in the Catskill Mountains near Liberty because of alleged unsanitary and unsafe conditions.

Atty. Gen. Louis J. Lefkowitz said Wednesday he has obtained a court order directing the operator of the camp, Merkos L'inyonei Chinuch, Inc., to appear in state Supreme Court here today to present its case against the proposed shutdown. The operator is accused of several violations of the state Sanitary Code, including lack of fire exit signs, failure to use self-closing fire doors, storing a mattress on a fire escape, running an electric wire along the ground and maintaining an unsanitary dining room and kitchen. Lefkowitz said he was seeking a preliminary court injunction to close the camp immediately and a permanent injunction to keep it closed until it complies with the standards.

Dear Abby

BY ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been separated for over a year. He has been living all this time with the woman he left me for — after 26 years of marriage.

My husband is 60, she is 46, and I am 58. I knew he had been seeing her, but I ignored it, hoping he'd get over her.

Our daughter is getting married soon. She wants a small garden wedding with a few close friends and relatives. We were once a very happy family and my daughter wants her father at her wedding.

I hear he is planning on bringing this other woman to the wedding. I've never seen her, but friends say she is the clinging, loud, possessive type.

I have not been in communication with him since he left me, so there is no way I can ask him not to bring his lady friend to the wedding. If he brings her, how far must my good manners be stretched? Unfortunately, I still care for him, but I don't want to play the role of the poor rejected wife.

DISTRESSED IN N.J.
DEAR DISTRESSED: If your daughter wants her father to attend her wedding, she should, without any prompting, ask him to come alone. If he is as much a gentleman as you are a lady, he'll not insist on bringing his friend with him. If he does, and your daughter makes her welcome, feeling as you do, you have a right to stay away. And I wouldn't blame you. Your daughter should see to it that your feelings are protected and if she doesn't, she will have made the choice.

DEAR ABBY: Seymour and I went together for about a year. We declared our love for one another and talked about marriage. We fought a lot over trivial things. It was one of those off-again, on-again romances from the start.

Last month, in anticipation of his birthday which is next week, I bought him a silver wine goblet and had both our names engraved on it. Well, we just had a terrible fight and broke up for good. Seymour asked me to return all the gifts he'd given me, but I refused.

Abby, since I bought the goblet for Seymour I think I should give it to him anyway. My friends say I shouldn't. What do you say?

NOT SURE
DEAR NOT: If you give Seymour the goblet anyway, he will think you want the romance to be on again. (Do you?) "To thine own self be true."

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped self-addressed envelope, please.

Hate to write letters? Send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069, for Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions."

Woodstock Garden Club Announces Social Activities

Woodstock Garden Club held a luncheon meeting recently at Williams Lake Hotel in Rosendale. Announcement was made that the Mohonk Mountain House Garden Holiday will be held Tuesday, Aug. 28. Reservations must be made by August 20 with Mrs. Decker Bradshaw.

Mrs. Ernest Lindroth read an invitation to a picnic sponsored by the newly formed Mid-Hudson Rose Society. The event is slated for Sunday, Aug. 12 in the gardens of the president, Mrs. Dorothy Yoerg in Ulster Park.

Mrs. Lamont W. Marvin, chairman of the unsolicited awards committee, submitted her report. The fall conference of the Federated Garden Clubs of New York State is scheduled for September 17-19 in Cooperstown. Reservations should be made as soon as possible with the Otesaga Hotel where the conference will be held.

Mrs. Bradshaw presented a gift to Mrs. S. Brainard West, a former president of the Club, who is leaving Woodstock.

Reports were given by Mrs. John E. Koerner, ways and means chairman, and Mrs. Edna Vickers, chairman of another sale will be held in the fall.

Mrs. Henry Rade,

corresponding secretary, read letters of resignation from the treasurer and recording secretary and two new officers were named. Mrs. M. Leslie Denning, president, conducted the meeting.

Cubiculo Features Talented Actor-Poet

In addition to the Phoebe Neville and dancers and the Lorna Labie Dance Company, Director Quinton Raines of the Cubiculo at Byrdcliffe (Woodstock) has announced the appearance this week-end of Actor-Poet Norman Matlock and a special program, "Music of the Theatre," to be presented on Monday, Aug. 13 and Tuesday, Aug. 14.

Norman Matlock, who will perform in his one-man show entitled "An Evening of Poetry, Song and Prose," originated the part of the Duke of Milan in both the Central Park and Broadway productions of "Two Gentlemen of Verona." He was also seen in the musical version of "A Raisin in the Sun" in Washington, D.C., "The Karl Marx Play" by Rochelle Owens at the American Place Theatre, and the motion picture "Across 110th Street." He will be touring Berlin, Paris, London and other European cities in "The Karl Marx Play" during the coming season. Mr. Matlock won great acclaim for his show "Soul Search" in which he appeared under the name of Ameribaka. His Cubiculo program will consist largely of his own compositions. It will be presented tonight at 8:30 p.m. and Saturday, (Aug. 11) after the Phoebe Neville dance concert, "Music of the Theatre," under the supervision of National Shakespeare Company Musical Director, John Francischina, will feature members of musical company now performing regularly at the Woodstock Playhouse. Tickets at the Woodstock Playhouse box office.

Weekend Programs

Maverick Concert Slated for Sunday

Appearing at the Maverick Concert Hall this Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock will be Paula Robison, flutist, Scott Nickrenz, violinist, and Samuel Sanders, pianist, in one of the most unusual concerts of the season. Featured on the program will be compositions by Georges-Adolphe Hue, George Philipp Telemann, Brahms, Milhaud, and Alessandro Rolla.

Paula Robison has the honor of being one of the non-solo resident artists of the Chamber Music Society of Lincoln Center where she is featured in regular New York appearances each season. A frequent participant in the Spoleto Festival, Marlboro Festival, and Music From Marlboro tours, she also has been soloist with L'Orchestre de la Suisse Romande, the New York Philharmonic, and Alexander Schneider's Chamber Orchestra. With a large repertoire encompassing music of all periods, Paula Robison has given New York premieres of many contemporary works. And as a contributor of the current Romantic revival, she performs rarely heard masterpieces of that period. She is not to be confused with the eminent retired singer and actor Paul Robeson who is, in fact, her godfather, and for whom she was named by her playwright father, David Robison, who was working with Robison at the time she was born.

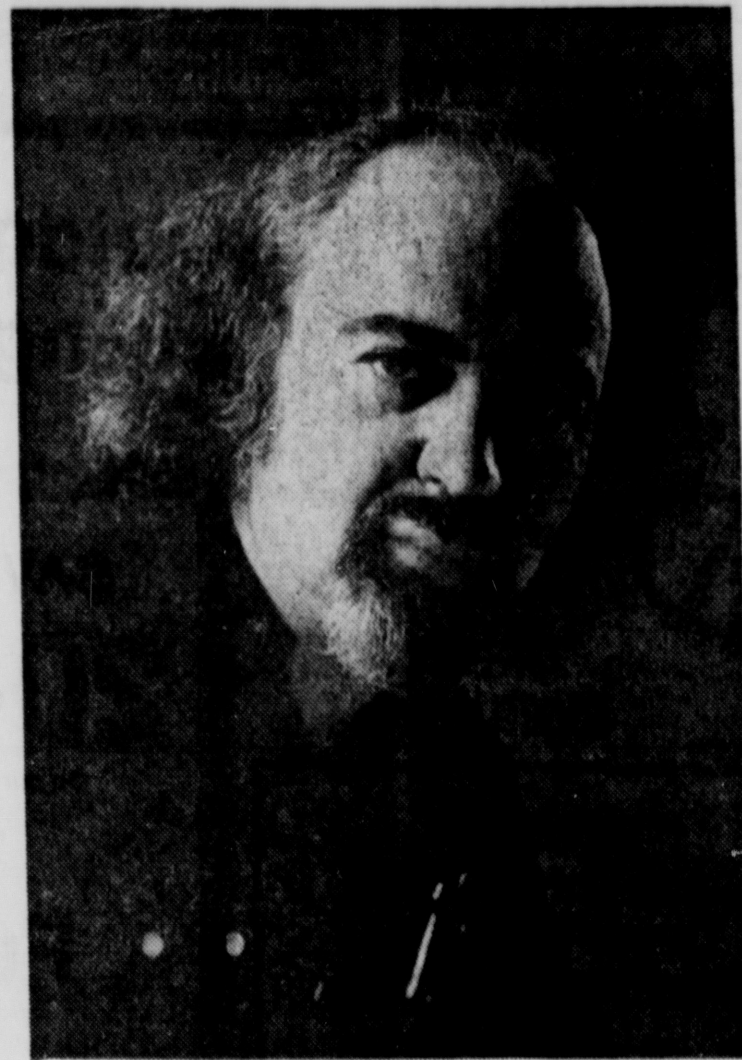

Scott Nickrenz, a Curtis Institute graduate, has been closely associated with chamber music for much of his musical life. He was a founding member of the Lenox Quartet, later formed the Contemporary Quartet which, in collaboration with the Modern Jazz Quartet, blended jazz with the classics, and more recently was a member of the Claremont and the Vermeer Quartets. He has concertized in the United States, Europe, South America and Africa, in addition to performing with both the Casals and Marlboro Festivals. He has been a member of the Tanglewood Composition Department, the Princeton Seminar of Ad-

Members of the cast will include (L-R) Peter Wolman, cop; Adele Kajakas, nurse; Marcia Hayes, woman with hat; and the "baby," Ralph Calavecchio. The first play will be "Infancy" by Thornton Wilder. The second will be "Visitor From Forest Hills," which is actually Act II of Neil Simon's comedy hit "Plaza Suite." The latter will star Peggy Henneberry, George Smith, Margie Sherman and Al Steigerwald. Steigerwald is the director. Public is invited. (Freeman photo by Haines)

PHOEBE NEVILLE — The Cubiculo at Byrdcliffe, the Experimental Arts Center of the National Shakespeare Company, will present two dancer-choreographers well known to the New York Cubiculo and other audiences. Phoebe Neville will appear in concert with Ping Chong and Philip Hipwell on Saturday, Aug. 11 at 7 p.m. and on Sunday, Aug. 12 at 8:30 p.m. Lorna Labie will give concerts with her Lorna Labie Dance Company on Wednesday, Aug. 15 and Thursday, Aug. 16 at 8:30 p.m. and will conduct Young People's Dance Workshops on Friday and Saturday. Phoebe Neville has performed frequently at the Cubiculo in New York City to rave reviews. Her program this winter was so successful that she returned for two more programs in the spring. Don McDonagh in the New York Times said of her last performance: "exquisite finish, unhurried presentation and an air of mystery characterize the work of Phoebe Neville... quietly moving." Miss Neville is also known for her work with the Elina Mooney Dance Company and at the Judson Memorial Church in New York City. For the Byrdcliffe concert, she will be performing in such works as her "Triptych," a three part solo to a tape by Meredith Monk and "Memory" which Mr. McDonagh described as "one of Miss Neville's most accomplished works." (Lawrence Fink photo)

Stockade Tour Slated Aug. 16

KINGSTON
The August Walking Tour of the historic old Stockade Area of Kingston, will leave the Governor Clinton Hotel at 2 p.m. on Thursday, Aug. 16. For almost a decade, tourists and residents of nearby areas have increasingly participated in this free, guided tour through over three centuries of community and regional history. The July tour saw a record turnout. It is believed that this interest may be attributed to the Bicentennial of the American Revolution. Already well over a century old at the time of the Revolution, Kingston as the new capital of New York State, third largest city and center of the prime agricultural area for feeding the rebel armies, was burned by a British army supported by a fleet of naval war vessels in 1777. The first Governor of the state, George Clinton, is buried in the quiet churchyard of a congregation founded in 1659 and within sight of the courthouse steps from which he took his oath of office. Kingston is not a reconstruction of a period town but is a living museum of structures of the 17th, 18th, 19th and 20th centuries living in harmony each with the other and serving continuously in the purpose of original construction.

Proposed Consumer Law Draws Fire From DA Vogt

By LYNN MULVANEY

KINGSTON

District Attorney Francis J. Vogt wants some kind of consumer legislation for Ulster County but the law package aired at Thursday afternoon's public hearing on consumer fraud protection is not the answer, he said.

The more than 75 persons attending the hearing held in the Legislative Chambers heard not only Vogt's views but the opinions and suggestions of a half dozen business repairmen and dealers.

Vogt addressed the group early in the hour-long session saying that the proposed law up for consideration, which is modeled after one in New York City, would probably cause as many problems as it might solve.

He suggested that the proposal be referred to committee and that perhaps three or four different laws applying to various types of repair business be drawn.

Vogt explained that since his investigation of fraudulent practices among automobile and television repairmen in the area, he has met with representatives of each group and came to the conclusion that each business has its own particular problems and that the proposed law would not be applicable in each instance.

Repairmen and dealers who attended the hearing prepared to blast the proposed legislation mainly agreed with Vogt and offered their cooperation in drawing up new laws.

The proposed law called for, among other things, written estimates, delivering replaced parts, not charging in excess of 20 per cent above the estimate and promising a completion date.

Vogt also suggested that consideration be given to the establishment of an arbitration board. He said there is a "vital need" for consumer protection which must be fulfilled and that "a lot could and should be done" adding that although he asked that the matter be referred to committee, "I want it clearly understood, I'm not abandoning my desire for consumer legislation."

Alice Tipp, president of the We've Had It Taxpayer's Association told the Legislature that her group would not recommend adoption of the proposed local law. "We have and will continue to believe, that the individual has a responsibility of governments or dealer."

It is not the responsibility of governments or police agencies to relieve him, the consumer, of this responsibility.

Arthur P. Motzkin of Kingston Oil Supply spoke against the proposed legislation saying the equipment his company repairs is "usually not sold or installed by his oil company. He maintained that under the proposed measure his night service would have to be stopped and that the proposal calling for the return of replaced parts would cost the customer 33 per cent more.

John Glennon, speaking for some local electrical contractors said he felt some controls are necessary and that some repairmen are not completely honest.

Charles Schaller of Schaller's Automotive said that under the proposal, his present 24-hour road service would be "out of the question." He said the new law would mean that he would have to charge for consulting, charge for diagnosis, charge a tear down fee, charge an inspection fee and charge for an estimate and require deposits.

He suggested that consumers shop where they have confidence.

"If you want to pass laws," he said, "let us help you in order to benefit the shops as well as the customer."

Richard Scism of D & H Auto Parts said he feels it is next to impossible to give an estimate on hard to get parts. He also noted that "You can't see through an engine," and that completion dates are not feasible.

Radio Executive Harry Thayer said he is all for a comprehensive law satisfactory to all and County Legislator Alex J. Nirenberg (D-Dist. 10) urged enforcement of present laws.

Vogt's opponent in the November election for district attorney, Barry Lippman, said the local law is not the answer and asked that anyone guilty of violations under the present consumer laws be prosecuted.

The president of the Consumer Electronic Technicians Association Ronald Palluth, told the Legislature CETA "is 100 per cent behind Vogt and his proposal for a new law" and he pledged help "to come up with such a law."

Sidney Musiker of Musiker Toyota suggested that the proposed law as written "would invite greater fraud." He said he felt there are other avenues open to the consumer such as small claims court, the Consumer Fraud Bureau and the Chamber of Commerce. "The unscrupulous merchant doesn't usually survive," he said.

Budget Hearing... 'Shortest in History'

By CARL GRAHAM

KINGSTON

One of the shortest public hearings in history was held Thursday afternoon in the chambers of the Ulster County Legislature to consider the 1973-74 operating budget of Ulster County Community College.

Only three persons were in the audience and no one spoke up when Legislature Chairman Peter J. Savago convened the hearing at 4:15 p.m.

"We asked all our questions in our executive session," Majority Leader Ernest J. Gardner told Savago, referring to a 2 p.m. session at which legislators went over the $3,579,320 budget.

Savago asked again if anyone wished to speak and was greeted with a wave of silence. Less than a minute after he had convened the meeting he declared it closed, and legislators headed for the doors and dinner before reconvening at 8 p.m.

The budget, up by $67,294, represents one of the smallest increases in the history of the Stone Ridge school. The county's share of the bill will increase by $74,731, mainly because a $47,063 increase in federal aid failed to overcome decreases in tuition, state aid, tuition from other counties that send students to the Ulster college.

Dr. George Erbstein, UCCC president, who barely got settled in his seat before the hearing ended, said that the budget was a conservative one that will still provide comprehensive programs for the county.

"I assume that the short hearing indicates no dissatisfaction with what the Board of Trustees and administration have presented them," he said.

Erbstein also pointed out that much of the work of adjusting the budget had been done in a series of meetings between administrators, trustees, and the legislature's Community College Committee, headed by Legislator Brian R. White (R-Dist. 9). Work began on the budget last November, he noted, and continued up to this week in a series of meetings.

A breakdown of figures for 1973-74 shows the total budget of $67,294 from last year's figure, a decrease of $34,640 in estimated tuition receipts and a drop of $2,521 in state aid, along with a decrease of $17,339 in estimated tuition from other counties and other revenues.

The county's share of the budget (29.2 per cent) amounts to $1,044,848. Tuition (25.5 per cent) is pegged at $910,812, state aid (33.4 per cent) is $1,194,497, colleges in general throughout the country.

Screening Program Set

POUGHKEEPSIE A Dutchess County-wide screening program to defeat high blood pressure will start in September, it was announced by the Dutchess County Heart Chapter, Inc.

This program is sponsored by the Chapter, the Poughkeepsie Model Cities Agency, The Dutchess County Department of Health, and the Medical Committee for Human Rights.

Dr. Jorilyn Prior, volunteer director of the Dutchess Pilot Program on High Blood Pressure, estimated that the disease "probably affects one in every six adults."

It has also been found in children as young as four years of age. "And it is the major health problem of black people," she added. "It is 100 times more prevalent than sickle cell anemia, for example."

Dr. Prior said it is estimated that half of those who have the disease are not even aware of it and may not become aware until some vital organ is damaged.

Unless effectively treated, high blood pressure can lead to heart attack, stroke, or other heart or kidney problems.

"The frustrating thing in this," she said, "is that the disease can be detected easily, painlessly, and inexpensively. In most cases it can be controlled by a pill or two a day. If we can get that across, we're making headway."

And she pointed out that "one exciting study has found that treating even mildly elevated blood pressure can dramatically reduce the risk of developing major complications."

Dollar Gains In Value

LONDON (UPI) — The U.S. dollar gained in value on most European exchanges today and the price of gold sank again.

The price of gold on the big London bullion market was set at $107.50 an ounce, $2.50 lower than Thursday's close and nearly $20 lower than its record price set earlier this summer.

The dollar, which showed strength all week, made its strongest showing against the German mark in the past month. It was traded for 2.3930 marks in Frankfurt at the start of trading, the highest value since July 11.

In London, the British pound sterling was worth $2.4740, against $2.4820 at the close of trading Thursday night.

Bike Arrest

Eddie Figueroa, 19, of Unionville Road, Plattekill was arrested and charged with criminal possession of stolen property in the third degree Wednesday. The arrest was made by cycle was allegedly found in his possession. Police said the bicycle was stolen from a Modena residence sometime Tuesday night or early Wednesday. The arrest was made by Plattekill Town Police and Highland State Police. Arraigned before Plattekill Town Justice Frank E. Berean, Figueroa pleaded guilty and was confined in Ulster County Jail for ten days.

The dollar gained a quarter of a per cent against the Dutch guilder, trading for 2.6210 guilders in Amsterdam. It also gained against the French franc, selling for 4.224 francs for the tourist financial dollar and 4.1925 francs for the official commercial dollar.

The dollar also gained a fraction in Zurich, where it traded for 2.915 Swiss francs, compared to 2.8875 Thursday, and it opened unchanged in Milan against the Italian lira.

Gold dealers said trading was unstable on the London market and gold showed similar price swings in Zurich.

Shortly after the morning fixing, gold dropped another dollar, to $6.50, then climbed back to about $107 an ounce. At the beginning of the week, gold sold for $115.75.

In Zurich, gold was priced between $105 and $108 an ounce in opening trades, down from $109-$111 when the market closed Thursday.

One trader at the Paris branch of a New York bank said he thought the French liberalization of restrictions against taking currency out of the country would aid the dollar's value in France.

Peace Talks Open In Farm Dispute

BURLINGAME, Calif. (UPI) — Cesar Chavez and Teamsters Union leaders, alarmed by the multi-million dollar cost of their bitter battle over representation of California farm workers, opened peace talks Thursday.

After three hours of discussions among officials of the Western Conference of Teamsters, the AFL-CIO and Chavez' United Farm Workers Union, the talks were recessed until today.

The participants refused to discuss the meetings or possible areas of agreement between the antagonists, but sources in the conference said costs and publicity forced both sides to the bargaining table.

They said the Teamsters, which has signed up most of the farms and ranches which previously had contracts with the UFW, have spent more than $1 million already and the total will reach $2 million before the end of the harvest season.

Chavez' union, they said, has spent nearly all its own money and $1.6 million contributed by the national AFL-CIO.

In addition to the costs, the sources said, the Teamsters were concerned about public opposition to their efforts by groups normally friendly to labor who sided with Chavez in the jurisdictional battle.

Both sides indicated they were prepared for talks lasting several days.

More than 3,000 UFW supporters have been arrested in recent weeks for violating court orders. Violence broke out this week with a series of five fire bombings near Bakersfield following a clash between pickets and sheriff's deputies.

Work Stoppage At Cossackie

COXSACKIE, N.Y. (UPI) — "A majority" of the 467 inmates at the Cossackie Correctional Facility began a work stoppage today as an apparent outgrowth of the beef shortage.

Harry Fritz, superintendent of the medium security state prison unit, said the inmates, aged 16-22, were standing in the yard refusing to work.

Fritz said that, because of the beef shortage, he issued a directive Thursday that inmates eat all they take at the mess hall.

Four inmates didn't finish their meals and were placed in segregation overnight, prompting the work stoppage, Fritz said. He said he was willing to talk to representatives of the inmates.

Miller: Today's Another Day

CLEVELAND (UPI) — If Johnny Miller is to be believed, then co-leaders Don Iverson and Al Geiberger will hit trouble today in the second round of the Professional Golfers' Association Championship.

Iverson and Geiberger, making the most of the easy conditions which prevailed Thursday morning, had hot putting rounds and finished with four-under-par 67s over the rolling 6,852-yard, par 35-71 Canterbury Golf Club layout.

Miller, the 26-year-old U.S. Open champion, went out late and like most of the other big names who followed, had trouble matching par on the back nine. He shot a one-over 72 after making a trio of bogeys between the 14th and 16th.

Unhappy about the way the greens played during the afternoon on Thursday, Miller said: "You watch, those guys who shot under par will have trouble when they go out late Friday."

"Hitting on the greens is like hitting on a table," Miller said. "They watered the perimeter and the front edge of the greens and I think that's unfair. That's tricking the course up."

Miller, not one given to making excuses and bucking authority, continued: "It's not fair and I don't care if the PGA knows about it."

Course Superintendent Bill Burdick rejected Miller's charge.

"There was uniform watering of the greens. It's just the wind dried out the back and higher spots," he said.

Iverson's only victory to date was in a satellite event, while the 35-year-old Geiberger has gone winless since taking the PGA in 1966.

The starting order was reversed for today's round with the low 70 and ties surviving until Saturday's third round.

Bob Dickson, only the third man to win the U.S. and British Amateur titles in the same year, was at 69 along with Mike Hill, the tempestuous Dave's younger brother, and veteran Mason Rudolph, who came out of a sick bed to fire five straight birdies on the back nine which he completed in a four-under 31.

Tournament favorite Tom Weiskopf, who admitted to "feeling pressure," was at 70 where he was joined by former British and U.S. Open champion Tony Jacklin; '69 PGA winner Ray Floyd, and outsiders Don Bies, Gibby Gilbert and Bobby Brue, a club pro.

Bruce Crampton, the tour's leading money winner, was one of 10 men grouped at 71, while Jack Nicklaus joined Miller at 72 along with nine others.

Two Ryder Cup players and champions in other years, Arnold Palmer and Lee Trevino, buried their chances with 76s.

Weiskopf, feeling unaccustomed pressure after winning surprisingly slow and left a lot of putts short," he said. Nicklaus started in great style when he canned a 40-footer at the first hole "but after that I could not get the ball close to the hole," he said.

Big Jack, who has missed out on major honors since last year's British Open, was not too discouraged with his open-out. That's got to be pretty ing round. "I like the pattern I played if not the result. I'm swinging good, something I've not done recently."

Nicklaus said he suffered several bad lies. "I landed in the rough at the par 5s and had the ninth lifted the Brewers to their win over the Angels. Jim Slaton pitched a nine-hitter to raise his record to 8.9 for the Brewers while Rudy May suffered his 11th setback against seven victories.

Bill Sharp's third homer of the season came in the ninth inning and gave White Sox relief star Cy Acosta his seventh win while tagging 18-game winner Joe Coleman of the Tigers with his ninth defeat. Ed Herrmann had two hits for the White Sox while Tony Taylor, Willie Horton, Bill Freehan and Aurelio Rodriguez had two hits each for the Tigers.

Dave May's two-run homer with two out in the bottom of innings with his fourth homer of the season. He saved the game in the sixth when he made a leaping stab against the right field wall of a drive by Orlando Cepeda with two out and two on. Steve Busby got credit for the win with Doug Bird pitching the last 1-3 innings for his ninth save.

Mike Cuellar pitched a six-hitter and struck out 10, raising his record to 9-12 for the Orioles, who dealt the Twins' Bert Blyleven his 11th loss. Bert Blyleven's 11th loss homered in the first inning for the Orioles' first run and Baltimore tallied again in the

Sweet Dreams in Kansas City

By United Press International
Surprise contenders like the Kansas City Royals begin to dream wonderful dreams when they see fellows like Hal McRae win key games.

McRae, acquired from the Cincinnati Reds last winter, has a way of playing his best with everyone else is uptight.

Thursday night, he drove in two runs with a triple and a homer and made a game-saving catch in the sixth inning beat the Boston Red Sox, 3-2. The victory gave the Royals a one-game lead over the idle Oakland A's in the American League's Western Division.

The Baltimore Orioles defeated the Minnesota Twins, 2-1, and took over first place in the East, the Chicago White Sox shaded the Detroit Tigers, 5-4, and the Milwaukee Brewers nipped the California Angels, 6-5, in other AL games.

McRae is hitting .205 for the season but has 19 hits in his last 59 at bats for a .322 average and says he's hitting better "because I've changed my stance."

McRae tripled home a run and scored on Rick Reichardt's sacrifice fly in the second inning and opened the fourth

Walton Almost Dies ... From Bumblebee Sting

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — All-America Center Bill Walton of UCLA suffered a near fatal bumblebee sting last week, the UCLA Daily Bruin reported Thursday.

Walton's older brother, Bruce, rookie offensive tackle training with the Dallas Cowboys at Thousand Oaks, Calif., told the newspaper, "Bill was riding his bike and got stung by a bee. He didn't know he was allergic to bees. He rode home and collapsed. He went to the doctor who gave him an immediate shot."

For Woodstock Championship

Buoymaster Downs Modica by One Shot

WOODSTOCK — Any golfer knows that double-bogeys, two-stroke penalties and tee markers are mundane items in the Royal and Ancient sport. But all three played crucial roles in the Woodstock Country Club men's 18-hole championship playoff in which challenger John Buoymaster dethroned defending champion Joe Modica by one stroke, 74 to 75.

The two had tied with one-under-par 139 in the regular 36-hole stroke tournament.

With the title in his grasp, Buoymaster let it slip away with a double-bogey 5 on Woodstock's treacherous par 3 (36th) hole. Modica, the first round leader with a sparkling 32-35-67 got his par on the final hole to pick up two shots and tie Buoymaster at 139.

In the 18-hole playoff, Modica elected to pull his own golf cart, slammed an errant drive off the fifth (14th) tee that ricocheted of the pull cart and cost him a two-stroke penalty and a chance to become a repeat champion.

The poor drive struck the golf cart on the left side of the fairway and USGA Rule 26 (Section 3) is very specific on the subject. . . "if a competitor's ball shall be stopped or deflected by himself, his partner or either of their caddies . . . the competitor shall incur a penalty of two strokes in stroke play."

The defending champion is not likely to forget that rule for the remainder of his career. In the light of subsequent events, it was a monumental mistake. Modica almost holed out his approach shot for an eagle-3 and settled for a birdie-4 on the par-5 hole.

Coming to the 14th hole, Modica trailed Buoymaster by the three strokes he yielded on the front nine, when he carded 39 to Buoymaster's 36. When the latter bogeyed the hole what might have been an all-even match found Buoymaster's three-stroke lead unimpaired.

Modica refused to buckle, however, and carried the Williams College Player to the 18th hole where Buoymaster canted a tricky, three-foot curler to close out the match.

Back on the 16th hole, a tee marker had given Buoymaster a friendly assist. His long iron approach glanced off the marker and stayed in play. If the ball had not struck the tee marker on the 8th hole it would have gone out of bounds. Both got down in par 4s, but Modica sliced Buoymaster's four stroke lead in half with a 15-foot birdie three to Buoymaster's bogey 6 on the 17th hole.

On the demanding 18th, Modica hit the green with his iron shot 12 feet from the pin on the par-three hole. Buoymaster pulled his drive to the left of the green, chipped to within three feet and got the clutch putt to nail down the title. He could have saved himself a lot of trouble with a similar performance on the 36th hole of the regulation tournament.

Buoymaster trailed Modica 67-72 at the end of the first round but rallied with a second round 31-36-67, while Modica carded 36-36-72 to create the tie at 139 and force a playoff.

With a chance to lock it up on the 36th hole, Buoymaster missed the green with his drive, chipped poorly and needed three to reach the green. He two-putted for the double-bogey 5, while Modica got his par.

Despite the varied elements involved in his victory it was a triumph that Buoymaster should have won in regulation time. The 36th hole denouement recalled a final round collapse against Howie Gordon that cost him the title.

With a solid performance in the Ulster County Amateur Championship and his Woodstock club championship, it can be said that Buoymaster has finally achieved a well-deserved niche among the county's amateur golf elite.

The results in the championship flight:

Joe Modica, 67-72-139; John Buoymaster, 72-67-139; Herb Waterous, 74-77-151; Paul Barlow, 76-80-156; Charles Sherrick, 80-77-157; Mike Boyle, 79-79-158; Andrew Rubin, 74-86-160; Bert Dean, 82-80-162; Jerry McIntyre, 86-89-165; Tony Lizzarelli, 83-90-173; Ken Charlton, 83-90-173.

H. J. Driving to 'C' Flag

SAUGERTIES — Howard Johnson's is continuing its march to the Saugerties Softball League's C Division flag. The Restaurant team downed two more opponents this week, the latter a big 6-3 win over second place Eveready Beverages. Earlier, HJ knocked off the Gunjah Warriors, 11-9.

In other games, Mark IV ripped Mahogany Ridge, 17-7. Eveready scalped the Warriors, 13-3, and Friendly Inn disposed of Mark IV, 7-3.

Howard Johnson's owns a two game lead in the league race. It beat Eveready behind Wes Finger's six-hitter and the hitting of Mike Cummings and Dave DalPonte. ENTHUSIASM REIGNS at Stone Dock Swim Club, High Falls, where the Art Stockin-coached team has been competing in a series of AAU meets this summer and bringing home busloads filled with trophies and ribbons. Stone Dock will host its first invitational meet beginning this afternoon at 4:30 p. m. at New Paltz State's Elting Gym. The meet will run through Saturday and Sunday starting at 8:30 a. m. each day and is attracting 23 teams from New York, Connecticut, Maryland, Illinois, New Jersey and Pennsylvania. Over 700 entries have been received. Among those competing will be the Stone Dock quintet of (L-R) Anne St. Denis, Paul Hansen, Mark Davis, Bob Winrow and Jay Rifenburg. All five are also members of the Kingston High School varsity and their summer's work should put the Maroons in great shape for the 1973-74 campaign. The sign in front of the group, by the way, is a souvenir of their recent trip to Watertown to swim in the Canadian-American meet at which Stone Dock was second. (Freeman photo by Haines)

Glasco Suffers 1st Defeat

SAUGERTIES — A Division pennant, but Glasco A.C. will not be the first team in 10 years to go undefeated.

The Athletic Club saw its victory skein snapped at nine when A. J. Farms won a 5-3 encounter behind Joe Palumbo.

It was the first time A. J. had ever beaten Glasco and it did so on the strength of a three-run first inning when Frank Allen walked a pair, Roger Lindhurst singled, Tim Murphy bunted one home, and a steal produced another.

Only two Saugerties teams have gone unbeaten, Glasco in 1962 and Michael's Barber Shop in 1964.

In another game, Jones Radio-TV whipped Hillside, 14-8, as Tony Spada singled, doubled, homered, and drove in four runs. Brent Ross had four singles and Ted Szyal and Mike Kleinert had three hits apiece.

Second place Buono-McConekey routed Cable T.V., 19-2, as Mike Dodig knocked in seven runs with two singles and two doubles, and Bob Dodig drove in four with a single and a double.

For U. S. Junior Girls Berth

Nancy Kolln Fails in Bid

BERNARDSVILLE, N. J. — Nancy Kolln of Kingston, N. Y., skied to a 95 Tuesday at the Somerset Hills Golf Club here for a 36-hole 179 total that failed to qualify her for the final matches of the U. S. Junior Girls Championship.

Miss Kolln, the '72 Ulster County Women's champion who elected to bypass a defense of her crown for a shot at her last junior tournament, opened the qualifying Monday with an 84 that left her in good shape to make the cut. On the second round, however, Somerset's sand traps foiled her bid.

Defending Champion Nancy Lopez, playing better than ever, set a women's course record and a national qualifying record as she paced the field with 71-73-144. The Roswell, N. M., miss is the heavy favorite as the 32 qualifiers enter the final match play eliminations.

The cutoff was at 163 where four players vied for one remaining position.

Miss Kolln, of the Wiltwyck Golf Club, was the runner-up in the recent New York State Girls Championship.

INTRODUCING THE SUNOCO TIRE STORE.

AND WHY IT MAKES SENSE.

YOU SEE US EVERY WEEK.

We're the Sunoco dealer who services your car. We know you, your car, and how you drive.

When we recommend a tire, it's because we know how you use your car. How many children you have. What kind of roads you take. How often you take a vacation. And how big a load you pull.

It wouldn't make sense not to offer you the right tire at our best price. We've got to stand behind it every time we see you. And we see you every week.

NO-COST BALANCING.

We don't understand why a tire store would sell you a tire and then charge you to make it work right on your car. So we balance every tire we sell. No charge.

CREDIT TERMS.

When you buy tires from us, you can use your Sunoco credit card. Extended terms are available on every tire we sell.

CONTINUOUS CHECK.

When you buy a set of our tires, we look them over each time you come in. If something's wrong, like poor alignment, improper balance, or even an imperfection, we can usually catch it before there's any serious damage.

BACKED BY TWO COMPANIES.

Sunoco is the world's largest Kelly-Springfield tire dealer. So when you buy tires from us, you're backed by both companies. Sunoco. And Kelly-Springfield. No matter what happens, you've got two companies behind you to make it right. Not just one.

We sell good tires at competitive prices. We're in a position to evaluate the way our customers drive, and to recommend the right tire for each one. We can't afford to give you a bad deal. We'd lose the rest of your business.

We have to face you every week, so we have to be better to keep your business. Doesn't that make sense?

Balloonist Plans Another Flight

NEW YORK (AP) — Balloonist Bob Sparks will rise again, a spokesman says.

Sparks, who aims to become the first transatlantic balloonist, took off from Maine on Wednesday but had to ditch off Newfoundland Thursday morning after encountering thunderstorms.

A Canadian Coast Guard cutter found the 37-year-old adventurer in good condition, sitting in the balloon's aluminum gondola. He had jettisoned the balloon after splashing down in the choppy Atlantic.

Sparks told about being awakened at night by a clap of thunder and dumping ballast to regain altitude as his nine-story rig, the Yankee Zephyr, was pushed down by the wind.

After dipping from 13,000 feet to as low as 2,200 feet and throwing out about a ton of ballast, he decided it would be impossible to keep the helium-filled balloon aloft, Sparks said. When told he had flown about 850 miles before ditching,

Sparks said: "I could have made it across in three days at that rate."

Sparks' wife Sally said she was relieved her husband was safe and added she was afraid he would not abandon his dream. Clint Laird, a spokesman for Sparks, said here that plans would start immediately for a new flight next summer. He said that since the balloon was lost another attempt could not be made this year.

Sparks, an entertainment director from Tamiment, Pa., holds the hot air balloon soaring record—11 hours and 14 minutes—and spent the last two years preparing for the 3,200-mile Atlantic flight.

Before taking off from Bar Harbor, Me. in his red, white and blue balloon, the former jockey and standup comic said he was aiming for France but added he would "consider anything from Finland to Italy a pinpoint landing."

There have been three previous unsuccessful attempts to cross the Atlantic by balloon. The balloonists survived attempts in 1873 and 1968 but a three-member crew disappeared on an attempted crossing in 1970.

Kheel May Support Rocky On New Transit Bond

NEW YORK (AP) — The man who helped defeat Gov. Rockefeller's 1971 transportation bond issue because he felt it didn't give enough support to mass transportation may back the governor's new $3.5 billion proposal.

Theodore Kheel said Thursday that Rockefeller had come up with some "constructive" changes in his thinking about mass transit and the Port Authority of New York and New Jersey.

He called Rockefeller's approach "a far-reaching interpretation of the Port Authority's functions." Kheel has long held that the authority should be more involved in mass transportation.

The governor's new interpretation, contained in a letter to Kheel dated Aug. 7 and made public by Rockefeller Thursday, included the statements that the bi-state agency was designed to serve a transportation function and given unique powers by the states of New York and New Jersey.

Rockefeller also said "all legal steps should be taken" to remove a restriction now blocking the authority's larger transit role, and that the authority's officers should be committed to mass transit.

Kheel called the governor's views "great." But he did not say whether or not he would throw his support behind the new bond issue, passed two weeks ago at a special session of the Legislature.

He has, however, called a news conference for Friday at which he is expected to declare himself.

Kheel opposed a transportation bond issue two years ago and it was defeated by the voters. He has also been a long-time critic of the Port Authority, claiming that it has refused to make any serious attempt to serve mass transit needs.

The authority has maintained that to support mass transit, generally a money-losing proposition, would be to lessen the value of its own bonds.

Kheel said he and the governor had discussed mass transit and the new bond issue at Rockefeller's estate late last month.

The new bond issue, which contains 2.1 billion for mass transit and $1.4 billion for highways was passed at a special session of the Legislature two weeks ago.

Youth Day Is Scheduled

RHINEBECK The Rotary Club of Rhinebeck will sponsor International Youth Day Aug. 12 at Camp Rising Sun.

The announcement from Ralph Steeves, district principal for the Rhinebeck school system, pointed out that 80 young students from approximately 40 area schools will be hosted and introduced to the foreign and American campers at Camp Rising Sun.

Steeves is coordinator under the Rotary sponsorship of the International Day.

According to George Jonas, founder of Camp Rising Sun now in its 44th year, international students at this unique camp come from 14 different countries, including Norway, Denmark, Holland, Greece, Turkey, Poland, China, Brazil, Iran, Indonesia, Malaysia, Japan, American campers include young men from Mississippi, Georgia, New Mexico, Utah, Appalachia, Upstate New York, and New York City.

Steeves predicted an educational experience for the 80 young visitors, who will exchange ideas with Camp Rising Sun campers.

The visitors are scheduled to arrive at the Beekman Arms Hotel at 10:30 a.m., where they will be loaded into cars for the five-mile ride to the camp. They will return to the Beekman Arms at 5 p.m.

International Day continues a recent tradition at Camp Rising Sun.

Burtons, Lawyer Confer Today

ROME (UPI) — The lawyer handling divorce proceedings for Elizabeth Taylor and Richard Burton arrived to confer with the estranged couple today.

Lawyer Aaron Frosch and his wife were met at Leonardo da Vinci Airport by Miss Taylor's secretary and Burton's secretary and driven directly to the villa of producer Carlo Ponti, where Burton has been staying.

Frosch announced in New York July 31 that the couple had asked him to file for divorce in Switzerland, where they have their permanent residence in Gstaad. Since then Miss Taylor has been living in a suite at Rome's Grand Hotel but has spent most of her evenings with Burton and the Pontis.

Miss Taylor is acting in the "The Driver's Seat," the film version of a Muriel Spark novel, which is being filmed in Rome.

Burton is scheduled to begin work later this month with Sophia Loren, Ponti's wife, on the film version of Luigi Pirandello's "The Voyage."

The couple, who began their romance on the set of "Cleopatra" in Rome a decade ago, separated for 17 days in July. They were reunited in Rome July 20 but that lasted only 11 days.

New TV Set

The Ulster County Home has a new television set and a pool table thanks to a contest won by Mrs. William Conner of Gardner.

Mrs. Conner won a contest sponsored by WHN in New York in which she was to nominate her favorite charity and tell why she nominated it. She won 210 Triple-S trading stamp books for the county home, and these were used for the television and pool table. Greco Brothers Amusement Co., of Saugerties, donated their services and provided an extra set of cue sticks.

TV Hoax Is Investigated

NEW YORK (AP) — Alan Abel, who often pops up on radio and TV to deliver a hoax or two, last month was investigated by the Federal Bureau of Investigation about a hoax concerning the Watergate hearings.

A source close to the investigation — Abel, to be precise — says it happened a few weeks after he and a female colleague hoaxed some members of the fourth estate at a news conference in Washington, D.C.

His colleague, an actress, posed as a repentant call girl who'd been prompted by the hearings to come forth with her own revelations of high-level hanky-panky.

She spoke of political espionage in boudoirs, paid for by Republicans who hired her to fool around with Democrats and by Democrats who hired her to fool around with Republicans.

The lady, who gave her dimensions as "37-24-35½," also told of one Washington orgy attended by "a who's who — in the nude, of course."

All of it was sheer imagination and the handiwork of Abel, 46, and a professional hoaxer since 1959, when he drew national attention with his campaign to clothe naked animals.

Alas, after Abel's latest caper, a prankster phoned Sen. Sam Ervin, D-N.C., head of the Senate Watergate Committee, and passed himself off successfully, as Treasury Secretary George Schultz.

He told Ervin the White House would give the committee its secret, Watergate-related tape recordings. Ervin reported this during the hearings, but quickly learned it was a hoax. The FBI was called in.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

Americans spent about $4.9-billion in 1972 to buy some 148,000,000 replacement tires according to a recent U.S. government report. The survey estimated that consumers wasted about $250,000,000 because of improperly inflated tires. The World Almanac notes. Motorists were urged to check their tires regularly with an inexpensive hand pressure gauge to get better wear.

Dramatic Capture in Adirondacks

Wounded Murder Suspect Under Guard

WOUNDED SUSPECT ENTERS HOSPITAL ON STRETCHER

(UPI Telephoto)

WITHERBEE, N.Y. (UPI)—A narrow roadway cutting through the tree-covered hillsides, a patrol of state troopers using bloodhounds then began probing the area to force Garrow onto the roadway.

The 37-year-old Garrow, a Syracuse mechanic, worked his way to the road, but then began to flee back into the woods, Ambler said.

Hillary LaBlanc, a conservation officer assigned to the search, fired four shots at the suspect who managed to stumble through the thick vegetation for about 75 yards before collapsing, Ambler said.

"It's too bad Garrow couldn't be taken without injury, but there is no question in my mind that LaBlanc saved the lives of several of my men by firing," Ambler said.

Pointing out that Garrow had turned to run toward the advancing patrol, the state police commander said, "This guy was at the end of the game. It was his moment of truth. He had a loaded rifle and only a couple of choices. He could have dropped it or put it in his mouth and pulled the trigger or opened up and battled it out to the death."

Friends and relatives of the suspect had said Garrow had vowed never to return behind bars following his release from prison several years ago.

Ambler said authorities "had a hunch" Garrow might be hiding in the Silver Hill area of Mount Tom, in the area of his boyhood home, but that "we knew we had him" when 18-year-old David Mandy was found with a food sack. The youth's mother is Garrow's sister. Troopers charged the youth with hindering prosecution.

For the first eight days of the search, Garrow used his skills as a woodsman to slip past search parties stalking the marshes and mountains around Speculator, about 60 miles southwest of here.

Ambler said the primary objective throughout the manhunt was "to wear him down. Keep him nervous and not able to rest. That was a big part of the plan. We figured that, as long as we could do that, we could outlast him."

Earlier in the week, after stealing a car and driving to this rural area west of Lake Champlain, Garrow slipped past police surveillance and visited the Mandy house at night, police said.

Once the visit to the house was revealed Tuesday, up to 200 state police and conservation officers, armed with rifles and shotguns and aided by helicopters and bloodhounds, were rushed into the area. Roadblocks were set up on main roads as far away as the Canadian border, 65 miles to the north.

Garrow, described by troopers as a "well built, very muscular" man, was described as "extremely dangerous."

He was named in a murder warrant issued last week in the death of Philip Dombrowski, 18, of Schenectady. Dombrowski was stabbed to death while camping with friends near Speculator, 60 miles southwest of here, July 29.

Garrow, described by state police as having an "extensive record for rape and various sex crimes," served a seven-year term in prison on a rape conviction and has told members of his family that he would never return to a prison cell.

Dombrowski and three companions had been camping when a man with a 30-30 tied them to trees and stabbed the victim repeatedly in the chest. The other youths, who escaped, identified Garrow as the attacker.

Police also want to question Garrow about the fatal stabbing of Daniel Porter, 22, of Concord, Mass., earlier in July. His body was discovered some 30 miles from the Dombrowski slaying.

Cambodia Bombing Opponents Still Trying

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chief Justice Warren E. Burger has refused to call a special Supreme Court term to consider the U.S. bombing of Cambodia, but opponents of the bombing are expected to make another attempt to gain the court's attention.

Burger refused the request Thursday from American Civil Liberties Union Foundation lawyers acting on behalf of Rep. Elizabeth Holtzman, D-N.Y., and three Air Force officers.

Less than two hours after the request was filed, Burger wrote "denied" across the petition, a court spokesman said. It was not known whether the chief justice would issue a written opinion.

A spokesman for Rep. Holtzman said the lawyers are considering a barrage of follow-up petitions in an attempt to get the administration to stop the bombing before Wednesday, when the President has said he will obey a congressional mandate to halt the air attacks.

Burger gave no indication whether he had conducted a poll of the other court members before denying the petition addressed to him.

Thursday's action marked the fourth time in two weeks the issue had been before the court. The tangled path the case has followed includes an attack by Justice William O. Douglas on the conduct of his colleagues.

Last month, Rep. Holtzman won an order in a U.S. District Court in New York to stop the bombing. That order was quickly blocked by the circuit court pending a hearing that was held Wednesday.

Not content to wait for that hearing, the bombing opponents went to Justice Thurgood Marshall last week. Marshall refused to act alone.

They then went to Douglas. Last Saturday morning, Douglas issued an order giving new life to the original court order and, in effect, ordering a halt to the bombing.

That order stood less than seven hours. Acting on a government motion, Marshall ordered the same district court order stayed, thus okaying the bombing which had continued unabated. Marshall noted that his action had the agreement of the other seven justices.

Douglas in his dissent, accused his fellow justices of taking an illegal short cut to overrule him. He contended that the law does not permit a single justice to overrule another.

Meanwhile, while he was Secretary of Defense, Melvin R. Laird personally approved an elaborate plan for keeping secret thousands of B-52 raids against North Vietnamese troop sanctuaries in Cambodia, according to a top secret memo made public Thursday.

The raids, from March 1969 to April 1970 were ordered at a time when the United States was professing to observe the neutrality of the Cambodian government.

The memo linking Laird, now President Nixon's top domestic adviser, to the deliberately camouflaged raids was released by Deputy Defense Secretary William P. Clements Jr. during testimony before the Senate Armed Services Committee.

The document, written by the former chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, Ret. Army Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, and initiated by Laird, outlines a plan under which simultaneous B-52 strikes would be made in Cambodia and South Vietnam. The strikes in South Vietnam, the memo said, were designed to provide "a resemblance to normal operations thereby providing a credible story for replies to press inquiries."

The memo, dated Nov. 20, 1969, also said other areas would be selected inside South Vietnam, which would not actually be struck. Instead, military record keepers would show each Cambodia mission as having occurred in South Vietnam.

A second set of statistics showing where the bombs actually fell was held by a tiny number of top civilian and military officials with a "need to know."

The Armed Services Committee has spent three weeks investigating why the Defense Department falsely reported that 3,630 B-52 strikes in Cambodia occurred in South Vietnam. Sen. Harold E. Hughes, D-Iowa, said, "This is the first indication I've had on paper that there were orders to enter false information in the record."

Adm. Thomas H. Moorer, the current chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, said similar reporting methods were used as far back as 1966 and 1967 under the Johnson administration.

Testifying before the committee, Moorer released a second memo indicating former Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara approved a similar method to the one approved by Laird and intended to lead the press astray.

That memo concerned 1967 B-52 strikes in Laos.

The committee adjourned the hearings, indicating Laird may be called to testify next month.

Government Troops Reopen Vital Highway

PHNOM PENH (AP) — The Cambodian command claimed "brilliant successes" on all fronts today and said its troops had reopened the highway to Neak Luong, the naval base on the Mekong River 32 miles southeast of Phnom Penh.

The command also said government troops had advanced southwest of the capital.

A communique said government forces from Phnom Penh and Neak Luong linked up Thursday at Dei Doh, 26 miles southeast of Phnom Penh. But a newsman was stopped at a roadblock 13 miles from the capital and told Communist troops were still in the area.

Neak Luong, which was bombed by mistake by a U.S. B-52 Monday, is the government's chief base on the Mekong River between Phnom Penh and the South Vietnamese border. The highway to the city has been cut by the Communist-led insurgents since April.

The highway, Route 1, goes on through insurgent territory to the South Vietnamese border. The insurgents apparently fell back and let the government forces through. Col. Am Rong, the chief spokesman for the Cambodian command, reported only light resistance and few government casualties.

Heavy U.S. bombing continued around the clock, and American fighter-bombers crossed over Phnom Penh almost constantly. Amid the noise of the bomb blasts, U.S. Ambassador C. Emory Swank went to the Phnom Penh airport for a ceremony delivering the first of eight C123 transport planes being given President Lon Nol's government before the U.S. bombing stops on Aug. 15.

In Saigon, the North Vietnamese delegation said an American plane took two U.S. representatives and five North Vietnamese to Hanoi today for more preliminaries concerning the U.S. quest for information on Americans missing in the Vietnam war.

It was the second such week the boy and his father. "He said all rumors had been 'proved false to date.'" ly trip after a seven-week suspension of the flights. A Communist spokesman termed it "only a liaison trip" and said no arrangements have been made yet for the return of the remains of Americans who died in captivity in North Vietnam.

The South Vietnamese command reported more heavy fighting in the central highlands Thursday and said 40 Communist troops were killed in clashes west of Kontum and northwest of Pleiku.

One government soldier was reported killed and 24 wounded.

Lost 'Radio Boy' Being Sought

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (UPI) — Bouncing radio beams and baseless rumors hampered the search for a boy desperately pleading for help over citizens band radio since Tuesday.

Search coordinator Richard Damerow said there are no plans to curtail today's search for the boy, believed to be trapped alongside his father in an overturned truck.

Though the boy in three days has never been able to identify himself beyond saying his first name is Larry, Damerow and other authorities agreed the search must continue on the assumption no hoax is involved. State Police reported 200 volunteers on motorcycles, horses and four-wheel drive vehicles combed mountains and plains and the Civil Air Patrol said six planes were in the air. The number of citizens band buffs on the airways attempting to track the child was limitless.

Damerow said there would be "a meeting with as many people in authority as possible to try to filter the many stories we have" and coordinate efforts more effectively.

The main focus of the search is in the area of the Sandia and Manzano Mountains in central New Mexico. However, according to state police Sgt. A. B. Whitehouse, "we're searching Alamogordo, Las Cruces and all over the state because we aren't really sure he's in the Sandias or Manzanos."

"It's my understanding that a skip of a radio signal is possible several hundred miles. We're really in no better shape than we were when we heard the boy's predicament Tuesday evening," he said.

"The bouncing of radio transmitting waves off the rolling hills, canyons and mountain tops in this area is making the search impossible."

The state police man said officers are "having a heck of a time checking down all these rumors coming from California to Ontario, Canada, concerning the boy and his father." He said all rumors had been "proved false to date."

Relaxing Day for Astronauts

HOUSTON (UPI) — While ground controllers consider feeding Skylab spiders Arabella and Anita a drop of astronaut blood to keep them healthy, the space station crew takes today off to relax, clean house and shower.

Alan L. Bean, Owen K. Garriott and Jack R. Lousma were given a "shopping list" of scientific and housekeeping chores to do if they wish, but Mission Control recommended they take it easy for the day.

The crewmen each had 90 minutes set aside for a shower and could do some sun observation through their powerful telescopes if they wished.

The astronauts gave a fly-size bite of rare filet mignon to their space pets Thursday to keep them alive for the rest of the record two-month flight in the hope the spiders will continue spinning webs in weightlessness.

Arabella has already learned to weave a web without the help of gravity, and backup spider Anita was to be given a chance later in the flight.

Flight Director Donald R. Puddy said if the skylab mascots are finicky eaters and don't like steak, the crew might be called on to use a little leftover blood from a biomedical experiment to provide a meal. Household spiders like Arabella and Anita usually eat only live insects, like flies, and rare filet was the only food item aboard Skylab close to the little creatures' tastes.

"In the continuing saga of Arabella . . . we're considering using a little M110 (experiment) blood," Puddy said. "We're continuing on with the experiment with vigor."

Arabella's gravity-defying feats each day have interested mission science pilot Garriott, and Thursday he commended the high school girl who thought of the experiment, Judith Miles, 17, of Lexington, Mass.

"She is to be congratulated for a very outstanding concept, a very interesting idea and one that might very well have some application in studies of how animals and even men think and behave when placed in a brand new environment," he said.
